French Miners Defy DeGaulle

No Government Crackdown Seen

PARIS (AP)—The French coal strike went into its sixth day today with no indication of the miners weakening or of the government cracking down on labor's first major stand against President Charles de Gaulle's 4-year-old regime.

The 200,000 strikers, seeking higher wages and a 40-hour week, refused to bow to De Gaulle's draft orders to return to the government-operated pits. By defying the draft, the miners made themselves liable to dismissal, fines or imprisonment, but there was no report of any government action against the men.

A possible indication of a government compromise came in an editorial today in the Gaullist newspaper La Nation.

"We have never ceased to affirm that men, clearly victims of an injustice, must be listened to and the maximum done for them," the paper said.

Reports from the vast northern coal mines near the Belgian border and from the pits in the Lorraine region near the West German border said that only mine security workers were on duty.

The first violence in connection with the strike came Tuesday night, and it was negligible. Between 1,000 and 2,000 students paraded in Paris in support of the miners. Police scattered the demonstrators and later scuffled with about 200 students. Three policemen suffered minor cuts.

In the coal fields riot forces mobilized by the government stayed discreetly out of sight. The Catholic, Socialist and Communist unions also maintained solid discipline among their ranks. In the Forbach area of eastern France, idle miners shopped with their wives, bowled or congregated in bars.

4 Ole Opry Stars Die in Plane Crash

CAMDEN, Tenn. (AP)—The wreckage of a light plane with four Grand Ole Opry personalities aboard was found about five miles west of the Tennessee River in west Tennessee today.

Benton County Sheriff Lyle Furr said there were no survivors. Aboard were singers Patsy Cline, Hawkshaw Hawkins and Cowboy Copas and the pilot, Randy Hughes who was Miss Cline's manager and a son-in-law of Copas.

The single-engine plane was returning the recording artists to Nashville after benefit performances at Kansas City, Kan. It stopped at Dyersburg near Memphis early Tuesday night to refuel. Hughes telephoned his wife in Nashville to say they would be home soon. The plane never arrived.

Miss Cline, who became a regular member of the Opry in 1959, was last year's "outstanding female vocalist" as judged by leading publications in the country and western music field.

Her biggest hit was "I Fall to Pieces. Others included "Crazy" and "Heartaches."

Hawkins, a West Virginian, has been with the Opry eight years and is married to Opry star Jean Shepard.

Copas has been with the Opry approximately 16 years.

Ole Aid for Aged Expenditures Climb

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Roger W. Tracy reported today that Ohio's expenditures for the aid for the aged program increased in February to $7,267,423, up $232,577 from the February 1962 total.

In the same month the number of old age pensioners dropped 2,285 to 83,817 from 86,102 a year ago, the auditor said.

City Legislators Approve Cemetery Improvement Plan

Official action to improve unsightly conditions at High St. Cemetery gained the approval of City Council last night.

A resolution calling for the removal of all remaining grave markers and stones was adopted. The legislation also calls for proper leveling and seeding.

The measure, sponsored by Mayor Richard Penn, was approved on a 5-1 vote, with Councilman Boyd Horn casting the negative reply. Solon D. J. Carpenter was absent.

Mayor Penn, initiating his campaign for an improvement project at the aged cemetery last month, pointed out that the burial plot has been a city eye-sore for many years. He launched a drive to gain public support of his plan then and apparently has gained it.

THE MAYOR told Council he has not heard of any formal complaint on the proposal. In fact, he said, many persons have sounded their approval of the idea.

The Council resolution also will provide for the erection of a single plaque or stone as appropriate designation for the cemetery. Indications are that most of the work can be accomplished by the City Service Department, along with help from the local Jaycees and other organizations.

According to the mayor, markers as they exist now will be placed and made a matter of record as much as possible. He said deed lot records of persons buried there are few, although about a dozen are filed here.

Although the action for improvement was given Council approval, Solicitor Kenneth Robbins questioned legality of making the proposed changes. He agreed that the cemetery is in dire need of maintenance, but hinted that the city may be "going kind of far in regard to private property." He referred to the monuments and markers that will be moved.

The solicitor said he was aware of the city's failure in past years to fulfill its moral obligation of properly maintaining the cemetery. He termed the proposed improvement an action that could be contested by any citizen. Councilman Horn agreed in casting his vote against the plan.

Solon Robert Hedges said the cemetery issue is one inherited, not created by the present-day Council. He said he favored taking corrective action that would meet the approval of the majority of people—the same policy voiced by Mayor Penn.

State Highway Financing Is Very Complicated Affair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State finance is a complex thing. Either Ohio motorists have been robbed of 28 miles of $1 million-a-mile superhighway or the other taxpayers have been spared a $28-million tax increase.

It's all according to how you look at it.

Before the administration of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes took over, highway officials were looking with envious eyes at the $28 million in highway funds due to be appropriated for highway safety, including the Highway Patrol and the Department of Highway Safety. The plan was to pay highway safety costs out of the general fund.

Then came the Rhodes austerity program. The 9-per-cent cut across-the-board order was issued. That percentage—excluding federal highway construction funds, which, of course, could not be diverted—came very close to the cost of the highway safety program.

So highway officials sighed in effect, you can't fight the Statehouse.

The upshot was that the Highway Department agreed to use highway money to pay the cost of operating the Department of Highway Safety for the next two years.

That allowed the department to meet the terms of the Rhodes austerity program without further sweat.

The story came Tuesday afternoon, about an hour after the House passed a bill allocating $28 million in highway funds, from Highway Auditor C. L. Emmons in the Senate Finance Committee under persistent questioning by Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami. The committee, at the time, was studying the $739-million highway bill.

Since Emmons and Highway Director P. E. Masheter had asserted the Highway Department plans to spend every available nickel, Gray wondered how it had managed to achieve a 9-per-cent cut.

Then, slowly, came the answer that the Highway Department had planned to revert to the days before the administration of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle when the Highway Department spent all highway funds instead of sharing them with the Department of Highway Safety.

That plan, now, of course, is dead. The implication now is clear: the general fund can no longer afford the Highway Safety Department.

For the record, the House passed and sent the highway safety measure to the Senate Tuesday with only nominal Democratic opposition, 122-8. It had passed the primary highway financing bill, calling for spending in the next two years of $739 million, last week. Together, they make up a highway package of $767 million in the next two years.

Underlying the Democratic opposition to the highways safety bill was the fact that it is $2.8 million, according to the Democrats, below the appropriation.

On tap today is a Senate vote on a controversial Senate bill to cut the present four-member bipartisan Liquor Board down to a three-member commission.

New Deal Aide Eyes Unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frances Perkins, secretary of labor in Franklin D. Roosevelt's depression era Cabinet, says the New Frontier's unemployment problem doesn't compare with the one faced by the New Deal.

She characterized the present jobless situation as "very spotty. Ours was general."

Besides, said Miss Perkins, the country is prosperous now. Miss Perkins, who will be 81 next month, was asked in an interview Tuesday whether she had any ideas now for solving unemployment.

Miss Perkins said, "Oh, no. They (the administration) are trying to handle the economy, manage it, get industry growing again. I think and hope they will be successful."

Featherbedding Is Defined

Railroads, Unions Detail Their Views

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's railroads and the unions representing train crew members are locked in a critical battle. The outcome will affect the jobs of perhaps 65,000 men.

What is the fight all about?

The rail lines demand revisions to abolish what they call featherbedding. This is a practice of forced work which they claim costs them $600 million a year. J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, says the railroads are ready to conclude an agreement within the framework of recommendations made a year ago by a presidential railroad commission.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, has termed the commission report "harsh, inhumane and retrogressive." The brotherhoods claim their proposals to modernize the wage and rules structure have been ignored.

Here are the commission's six main recommendations and the views of each side:

1. No new firemen would be hired for diesel locomotives in freight or yard service. The 27,000 firemen with at least 10 years seniority would continue working until eliminated by natural attrition—death, retirement, etc.

The remaining 13,000 firemen with less than 10 years service would be dismissed with 3 to 12 months notice. They would receive dismissal pay ranging up to 36 months at 60 per cent of past pay. Displaced firemen would get priority in rehiring and two years of retraining.

Management contends: "You can't run a modern railroad on conditions set up years ago."

The unions call the firemen a diesel helper and say he's needed for greater safety on trains. Gilbert says 190 train employees were killed in one recent year.

Driver Fee Hike Tied to Pupil Training

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Judson Hoy, R-Cincinnati, has submitted a proposal to the House Highways Committee to increase Ohio drivers licenses to $3, an increase of $2.25, to finance a student driver training course in the state's schools.

Hoy submitted the proposal as a substitute for his original bill proposing the $3 fee without any earmarking of the revenues.

His plan would create a "student driver training fund," with $2.25 of the $3 fee going into the fund. Present fee for a three-year driver license is 75 cents.

Under his proposal the fund would be distributed under a formula adopted by the state board of education, with not more than $25 per year being allowed for each pupil between 15 and 18.

Hoy said the present 75-cent fee produces about $4 million in a three-year period. He estimated the $3 fee would bring in about $16 million with about $12 million going into the fund in three years.

Powell Faces House Vote on Expense Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's popularity with his colleagues faces a severe test today in the House.

The New York Democrat, chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, has been sharply criticized for his extensive travels on "official business" and for the heavy expenses of his committee.

A House Administration subcommittee took official cognizance of the criticism Monday by slashing the budget for Powell's committee from $697,000 for a two-year period to $200,000 for 1963.

The recommended cut will be acted on by the House under procedure making it extremely difficult to alter the subcommittee's action.

The Administration subcommittee acted after a committee colleague of Powell's, Rep. Phil Landrum, D-Ga., called Powell's request for $202,000 for an investigative task force "a shrewdly calculated patronage grab." The subcommittee rejected the entire allotment.

Landrum said the budget requested by Powell was "outrageously high" and should be trimmed to $322,000 for two years. In the two years of the last Congress, the Labor Committee was given $633,000.

Floods Isolate Athens; 3 OU Dorms Evacuated

Scioto Crests at 21.9 Feet; Gradual Drop Is Expected

THE SWOLLEN SCIOTO — The river reading was 21.85 at noon, shortly after this picture was taken. The water is within approximately two feet of the bridge and covered the entire river bottoms today. The river crest was 21.90 at 7 a. m. today and was expected to rise to near that crest this afternoon again when a fresh wave of water from the Alum Creek reached the area.

Strong March winds and snow flurries were substituted today for the heavy rains of earlier in the week that caused the worst flooding in this area since January 1959.

The Scioto River here reached its crest at about 7 a. m. today at 21.90 feet — the crest on Jan. 22, 1959 was 26.97 feet.

Several roads and highways closed yesterday were opened today as the high waters began to recede. State roads still closed at noon included Route 104 south, one way traffic; Route 752, from 23 to 674; Route 762, from 23 to 104 and Routes 56, from 22 to 104.

Smaller streams in the Pickaway County area have returned to near normal. However, county road officials have advised motorists to drive with care since many gravel roads were "washed out" during the heavy rains and by flowing surface water.

Last night's 0.32 of an inch of rainfall had little effect on the already rampaging Scioto. Harry Styers, local weather observer, reported a slight increase in the river's depth at noon today. He said this was to be expected because of conditions in the Alum Creek area, Columbus.

Styers, checking the river every hour, gave the following report on the river's depth shortly before 1 p. m. today; at 7 a. m. 21.90 feet, at 8 a. m., 21.86 feet; 10 a. m., 21.83 feet; and at 12:30 p. m., 21.85 feet.

The U. S. Weather Bureau, Columbus, indicated the Scioto would steadily recede unless more rainfall should occur today.

The Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter worked yesterday assisting in the evacuation of families and their belongings in the area west of Circleville. Mrs. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary, said the group was "prepared for the worst. She said the chapter was prepared to set up a shelter if necessary."

Mrs. Wolford announced that local persons who suffered a loss as result of the deluge, could make application for Red Cross assistance in rehabilitation by contacting her office.

West Pennsy Cleaning Up From Flood

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pumps, shovels and brooms were the order of the day as Western Pennsylvania began today to clean up the mess left behind by receding flood waters.

The danger of serious flooding appeared ended, although it could be revived if another unexpected surge of rain and thaw should occur.

In Carnegie and other flood-stricken communities along the Chartiers Creek south of Pittsburgh—the area hardest hit by the high water of the past few days—receding water left layers of mud in the streets and deep water in the basements.

A Salvation Army spokesman estimated that some 170 families in the area have left their homes and moved in with friends, relatives, the Salvation Army or the Red Cross.

Along the Monongahela River, the communities of Brownsville and West Brownsville faced similar problems, with a score of families evacuated from their homes.

But the Monongahela passed its crest overnight and was receding. As the Monongahela subsided, a crest began to move down the Ohio River. It moved past Pittsburgh this morning more than a foot below flood stage.

The grim possibilities were explored Tuesday by a joint congressional committee on atomic energy, firing questions at a battery of Defense Department experts.

One expert, Dr. Carl F. Romney, told the committee that a chain of 15 $1-million stations surrounding the Soviet Union would cost about $10 million a year to operate.

Even this detection system would have problems. It would detect between 125 and 250 shallow earthquakes within Soviet borders each year—and each event would have to be proved an earthquake, Romney said.

Ghana Independence Celebration Shelved

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Ghana gloomily marked the sixth anniversary of independence today with all celebrations called off because of terrorist activities.

There have been four bomb incidents during the past year including one last Aug. 1 when a hand grenade was thrown at President Kwame Nkrumah.

River 6 Feet Above Banks

Most Streams Recede; Scioto Shows New Rise

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The Hocking River rose to around 23 feet today, virtually cutting off this southeastern Ohio college community. Flood stage is 17 feet.

But Athens, located in the foothills of the Alleghenies, has known flood conditions before. Area residents seemed to be taking the situation in stride.

Sheltering Arms Hospital reported that a physician from the village of Albany, eight miles west was driving in for a surgery appointment Tuesday when he found U.S. 50 covered with water at the outskirts of Athens.

The doctor calmly removed a canoe from the top of his automobile.

Swim Test Off; Too Much Water

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-American Conference swimming meet which had been scheduled at Ohio University for this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, has been postponed until the following weekend because of "too much water" — flood water, that is.

Most of OU's athletic facilities have been inundated by the overflowing Hocking River.

With the help of his two sons, paddled about 75 yards across the flooded highway, called a taxi and proceeded to surgery, the hospital said.

Ohio University, Athens' biggest industry, evacuated about 700 men students from three new dormitories on the West Green, quarantining them in other dorms and fraternity houses.

The university said the new dormitories are designed to withstand flooding, with living quarters almost at second-story level, but that evacuation is a precautionary measure. For one thing, they said, the heating equipment had to be turned off.

Sandbags were placed around married students' quarters at the southeast edge of the campus. The football stadium was flooded, and water was rising toward the new fieldhouse where basketball games are played.

About 100 persons have been evacuated from houses in low-lying sections of Athens, a routine measure in times of high water. The Red Cross and Ohio National Guard set up relief centers in an armory and a lodge hall.

Although the Hocking continued on the rise, most of the tributaries flowing into the Ohio River were receding. Favorable forecasts of showers tapering off into snow flurries came from the U.S. Weather Bureau in Columbus.

The Ohio, fed by countless streams along its northern reaches, was expected to crest in the Cincinnati area at 57 feet Saturday, about five feet above flood stage. River observers said

Publisher, 100, Ain't Been No Account for 2 Months

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—"I ain't been no account for two months," grumbled E. L. Turner, the oldest daily newspaper publisher in his country, who marks his 100th birthday today.

Turner, publisher of the Valdosta Daily Times, was lamenting a recent two-week stay in the hospital. He is recuperating at home from an internal disorder.

The hospital encountered a major problem and relatives had to station an attendant in Turner's room to solve it.

The peppery patient kept hopping out of bed every time backs were turned.

This wasn't his first trip to the hospital. His tonsils were removed at 87.

Turner has a stock reply: "Damn good. If I weren't, I'd be dead."

Until his recent illness, the publisher went almost daily to his newspaper office—except when vacationing in Miami.

He has been with the Times since 1889, when the paper was published twice a week. He turned it into a daily in 1905.

He complains about not being able to see well but usually reads several newspapers each day with the aid of silver-rimmed spectacles. He sometimes wears a makeshift eyeshade—a green baseball cap with the top cut out.

Turner takes pleasure in rocking, chewing tobacco, and reminiscing.

About 150 friends and relatives from throughout the South have accepted invitations to a surprise birthday party for him.

Dems Claim Rhodes Plan To Hurt Poor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's poorest people will suffer most from Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes' plans to reduce the state's welfare aid, legislative Democrats charge.

House Minority Leader A. G. Lancione, D-Belmont, and Senate Minority Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, pictured the Republican governor Tuesday as a man trying to polish his image as a penny-pinching, tight-fisted watchdog of the public's money.

Instead, they charged, the Republican move will cost local governments millions of dollars.

Their attack was aimed at an announcement last week by Rhodes' welfare director, Denver White, which said aid to the aged and disabled will be cut back and that the state will slash its matching of local poor relief spending from 50 to 40 per cent.

In a statement, the Democratic leaders said this marks the first time that Ohio has failed to match local relief payments 50-50. As a result, they said, relief directors in metropolitan areas will have no choice except to cut relief payments by 16 per cent. These payments, they said, are only 80 per cent of absolute minimum needs.

State Education Board Authority Is Upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court refused today to review an appellate court decision upholding the state education board's authority to revoke high school charters.

The Aberdeen-Huntington Local School District of Brown County appealed from the decision holding that the state board could withhold state subsidies from districts failing to maintain minimum educational standards established Jan. 1, 1958.

Driver Fee Hike Tied to Pupil Training

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Judson Hoy, R-Cincinnati, has submitted a proposal to the House Highway Committee to increase Ohio drivers' licenses to $3, an increase of $2.25, to finance a student driver training course in the state's schools.

Hoy submitted the proposal as a substitute for his original bill proposing the $3 fee without any earmarking of the revenues.

His plan would create a "student driver training fund," with $2.25 of the $3 fee going into the fund. Present fee for a three-year driver license is 75 cents.

Under his proposal the fund would be distributed under a formula adopted by the state board of education, with not more than $25 per year being allowed for each pupil between 15 and 18.

Hoy said the present 75-cent fee produces about $4 million in a three-year period. He estimated the $3 fee would bring in about $16 million with about $12 million going into the fund in three years.

Powell Faces House Vote on Expense Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's popularity with his colleagues faces a severe test today in the House.

The New York Democrat, chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, has been sharply criticized for his extensive travels on "official business" and for the heavy expenses of his committee.

A House Administration subcommittee took official cognizance of the criticism Monday by slashing the budget for Powell's committee from $97,000 for a two-year period to $200,000 for 1963.

The recommended cut will be acted on by the House under procedure making it extremely difficult to alter the subcommittee's action.

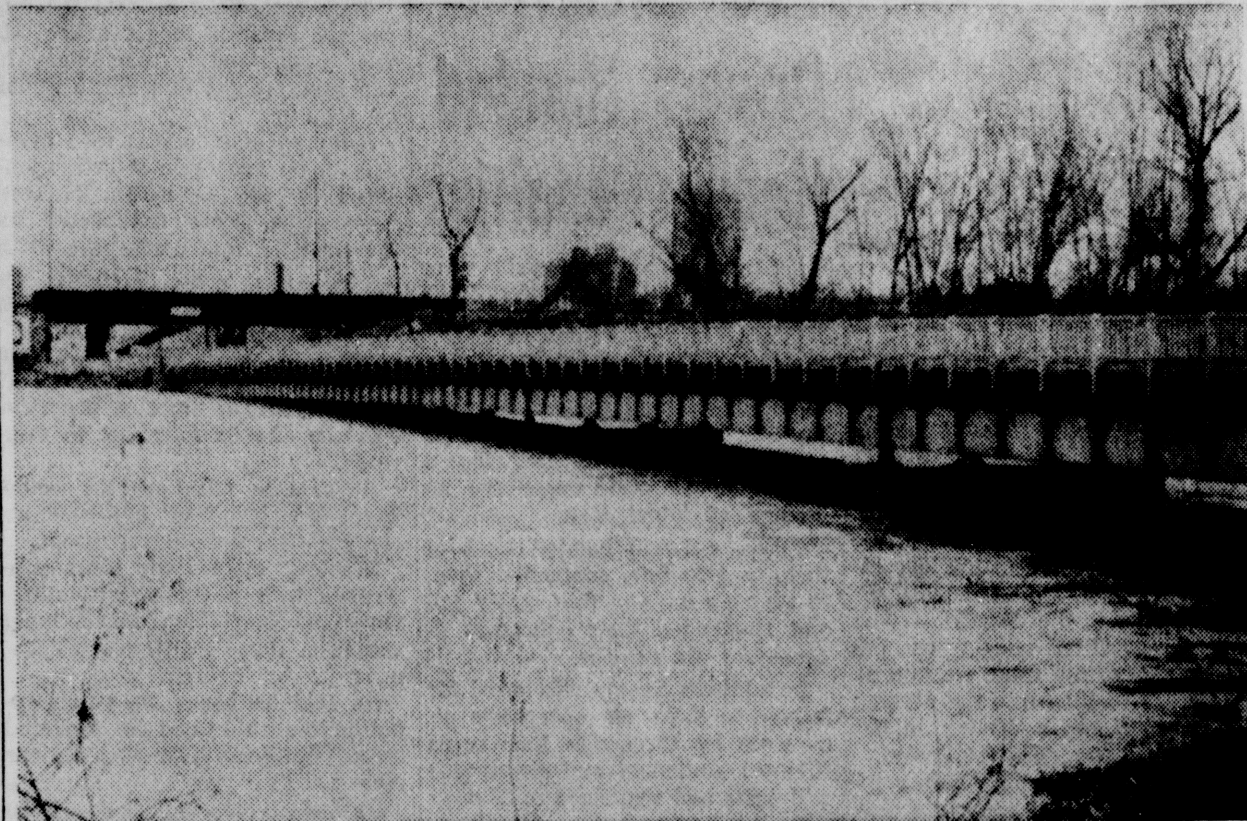

The Administration subcommittee acted after a committee colleague of Powell's, Rep. Phil Landrum, D-Ga., called Powell's request for $202,000 for an investigative task force "a shrewdly calculated patronage grab." The subcommittee rejected the entire allotment.

Landrum said the budget requested by Powell was "outrageously high" and should be trimmed to $322,000 for two years.

In the two years of the last Congress, the Labor Committee was given $633,000.

Floods Isolate Athens; 3 OU Dorms Evacuated

Scioto Crests at 21.9 Feet; Gradual Drop Is Expected

THE SWOLLEN SCIOTO — The river reading was 21.85 at noon, shortly after this picture was taken. The water is within approximately two feet of the bridge and covered the entire river bottoms today. The river crest was 21.90 at 7 a. m. today and was expected to rise to near that crest this afternoon again when a fresh wave of water from the Alum Creek reached the area. (Staff Photo)

Strong March winds and snow flurries were substituted today for the heavy rains of earlier in the week that caused the worst flooding in this area since January 1959.

The Scioto River here reached its crest at about 7 a. m. today at 21.90 feet — the crest on Jan. 22, 1959 was 26.97 feet.

Several roads and highways closed yesterday were opened today as the high waters began to recede. State roads still closed at noon included Route 104 south, one way traffic; Route 752, from 23 to 674; Route 762, from 23 to 104 and Routes 56, from 22 to 104.

Smaller streams in the Pickaway County area have returned to near normal. However, county road officials have advised motorists to drive with care since many gravel roads were "washed out" during the heavy rains and by flowing surface water.

Last night's 0.32 of an inch of rainfall had little effect on the already rampaging Scioto. Harry Styers, local weather observer, reported a slight increase in the river's depth at noon today. He said this was to be expected because of conditions in the Alum Creek area, Columbus.

Styers, checking the river every hour, gave the following report on the river's depth shortly before 1 p. m. today; at 7 a. m. 21.90 feet, at 8 a. m., 21.86 feet; 10 a. m., 21.83 feet; and at 12:30 p. m., 21.85 feet.

The U. S. Weather Bureau, Columbus, indicated the Scioto would steadily recede unless more rainfall should occur today.

The Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter worked yesterday assisting in the evacuation of families and their belongings in the area west of Circleville. Mrs. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary, said the group was "prepared for the worst. She said the chapter was prepared to set up a shelter if necessary."

Mrs. Wolford announced that local persons who suffered a loss as result of the deluge, could make application for Red Cross assistance in rehabilitation by contacting her office. . . .

West Pennsy Cleaning Up From Flood

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pumps, shovels and brooms were the order of the day as Western Pennsylvania began today to clean up the mess left behind by receding flood waters.

The danger of serious flooding appeared ended, although it could be revived if another unexpected surge of rain and thaw should occur.

In Carnegie and other flood-stricken communities along the Chartiers Creek south of Pittsburgh—the area hardest hit by the high water of the past few days—receding water left layers of mud in the streets and deep water in the basements.

A Salvation Army spokesman estimated that some 170 families in the area have left their homes and moved in with friends, relatives, the Salvation Army or the Red Cross.

Along the Monongahela River, the communities of Brownsville and West Brownsville faced similar problems, with a score of families evacuated from their homes.

But the Monongahela passed its crest overnight and was receding. As the Monongahela subsided, a crest began to move down the Ohio River. It moved past Pittsburgh this morning more than a foot below flood stage.

The grim possibilities were explored Tuesday by a joint congressional committee on atomic energy, firing questions at a battery of Defense Department experts.

One expert, Dr. Carl F. Romney, told the committee that a chain of 15 $1-million stations surrounding the Soviet Union would cost about $10 million a year to operate.

Even this detection system would have problems. It would detect between 125 and 250 shallow earthquakes within Soviet borders each year—and each event would have to be proved an earthquake, Romney said.

Kennedy supported the argument advanced by Fisher in a public statement last weekend that the United States has made considerable progress in detecting nuclear underground explosions and distinguishing between such shocks and those caused by earthquakes.

But the perfection of detection techniques, the President said, has not reached the point where on-site inspections can be dispensed with.

Nuclear Detection To Be Difficult

WASHINGTON (AP)—What are the chances of detecting hidden nuclear test explosions in the secret heartland of the Soviet Union?

Most Streams Recede; Scioto Shows New Rise

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The Hocking River rose to around 23 feet today, virtually cutting off this southeastern Ohio college community. Flood stage is 17 feet.

But Athens, located in the foothills of the Alleghenies, has known flood conditions before. Area residents seemed to be taking the situation in stride.

Sheltering Arms Hospital reported that a physician from the village of Albany, eight miles west was driving in for a surgery appointment Tuesday when he found U.S. 50 covered with water at the outskirts of Athens.

The doctor calmly removed a canoe from the top of his automobile.

Swim Test Off; Too Much Water

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-American Conference swimming meet which had been scheduled at Ohio University for this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, has been postponed until the following weekend because of "too much water" — flood water, that is.

Most of OU's athletic facilities have been inundated by the overflowing Hocking River.

With the help of his two sons, paddled about 75 yards across the flooded highway, called a taxi and proceeded to surgery, the hospital said.

Ohio University, Athens' biggest industry, evacuated about 700 men students from three new dormitories on the West Green, quarantining them in other dorms and fraternity houses.

The university said the new dormitories are designed to withstand flooding, with living quarters almost at second-story level, but that evacuation is a precautionary measure. For one thing, they said, the heating equipment had to be turned off.

Sandbags were placed around married students' quarters at the southeast edge of the campus. The football stadium was flooded, and water was rising toward the new fieldhouse where basketball games are played.

About 100 persons have been evacuated from houses in low-lying sections of Athens, a routine measure in times of high water. The Red Cross and Ohio National Guard set up relief centers in an armory and a lodge hall.

Although the Hocking continued on the rise, most of the tributaries flowing into the Ohio River were receding. Favorable forecasts of showers tapering off into snow flurries came from the U.S. Weather Bureau in Columbus.

The Ohio, fed by countless streams along its northern reaches, was expected to crest in the Cincinnati area at 57 feet Saturday, about five feet above flood stage. River observers said (Continued on Page 2)

Publisher, 100, Ain't Been No Account for 2 Months

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—"I ain't been no account for two months," grumbled E. L. Turner, the oldest daily newspaper publisher in his country, who marks his 100th birthday today.

Turner, publisher of the Valdosta Daily Times, was lamenting a recent two-week stay in the hospital. He is recuperating at home from an internal disorder.

The hospital encountered a major problem and relatives had to station an attendant in Turner's room to solve it.

The peppy patient kept hopping out of bed every time backs were turned.

This wasn't his first trip to the hospital. His tonsils were removed at 87.

Turner has a stock reply: "Damn good. If I weren't, I'd be dead."

Until his recent illness, the publisher went almost daily to his newspaper office—except when vacationing in Miami.

He has been with the Times since 1889, when the paper was published twice a week. He turned it into a daily in 1905.

He complains about not being able to see well but usually reads several newspapers each day with the aid of silver-rimmed spectacles. He sometimes wears a makeshift eyeshade—a green baseball cap with the top cut out.

Turner takes pleasure in rocking, chewing tobacco, and reminiscing.

About 150 friends and relatives from throughout the South have accepted invitations to a surprise birthday party for him.

JFK Still Expects Congress To OK Tax Cut, Revision

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today he still wants tax reductions linked with tax revisions and it is his judgment that Congress will enact a bill embracing both.

Kennedy did not say whether he would, if necessary, accept a tax reform.

The first question at a presidential news conference was aimed at trying to clear up exactly what he would accept in tax legislation.

Kennedy has proposed that Congress lower taxes by $13.6 billion over three years and offset this by tax revisions which would bring in $3.5 billion—for a net cut of about $10 billion.

Then last week he said the important thing is to get a tax bill this year, and: "Whatever is necessary to get that bill, I would support."

Some of his remarks to a symposium on economic growth sponsored by the American Bankers Association, were interpreted as meaning he would accept a $13.6 billion slash and, if need be, abandon his bid for offsetting changes in the revenue laws.

Asked whether that was a fair interpretation, Kennedy replied that he thought the best program was the one he had sent to Congress.

He said he felt Congress would enact this type of bill—one including the proposed revisions.

Kennedy opened the news conference with a volunteered statement plugging for congressional action on three legislative proposals.

He said he hopes the youth opportunities bill can be enacted before Congress takes its Easter recess.

He noted hearings have been completed in the House on legislation to help produce more doctors and dentists. The talents of professions are needed, he said, and he hopes the bill will be passed.

He urged prompt attention to his legislative recommendations in the field of mental health.

Soon after the question period began, the President was asked about the four U.S. aviators who lost their lives in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs Cuban invasion. Were they employees of the government or the CIA?

Kennedy did not directly answer the question. He said it was a voluntary flight, and that the men were serving their country. Many times over the past years, Kennedy said, Americans have served their nation but he added that it isn't helpful to U.S. interests to go into details.

Kennedy was asked a three-part question, about the number of Russian military personnel in Cuba, but he obviously didn't want to make any comment on this.

"No," he said, "My answer would be no to all of them."

To a further question, Kennedy said he had seen charges that the administration has held up information on the Soviet buildup in Cuba.

"In hindsight," he said, "perhaps we could have picked up this information a few days earlier—but not many days earlier."

The President added that, "I feel the intelligence services did a very good job."

After all, he said, the missile bases were detected and exposed.

Kennedy was asked also about plans for continuing to deal with the Cuban problem, especially what he may discuss during his forthcoming visit to Costa Rica.

The President said the problem is people coming and leaving Cuba. The problem is one for other Latin-American countries, he said—each country for itself must keep track of these comings and goings, who the people are and what happens to them. Also, he said, there are the questions of trade, diplomatic representation and the West.

He would hope, he went on, that the other American republics would work with the United States in trying to isolate communism in Cuba.

Safe Opened; Second Entry Attempt Fails

Circleville Police today were investigating an entry at the Farm Bureau Home, E. Main St., where a safe was "punched."

Sgt. Turney Ross said $10 was taken from the safe. Several file cabinets in the building were opened, but nothing else was reported missing.

Sgt. Ross and Patrolman Larry Pontious also were called early today to investigate an attempted burglary at the Blue Ribbon Dairy S. Pickaway St.

Officers said efforts to open a front door at the dairy were unsuccessful.

ENTRY at the Farm Bureau building was gained through large double doors on the front side. Sgt. Ross said the intruders then slipped into the offices through an interior window.

The money was the only loot removed from the safe, officers reported.

Minor Injuries Are Listed in 1-Car Mishap

Minor injuries were suffered by a three-year-old in a one-car mishap yesterday on Route 56, about one-half mile southeast of Route 159.

Injured was Daniel Gardner, 3, a passenger in an auto driven by his father, Arthur B. Gardner, 62, of Columbus. He suffered lacerations of the face and a possible broken nose. The youth's mother, Rose Gardner, also a passenger, was not injured, according to the State Highway Patrol.

Patrolmen said Gardner apparently failed to negotiate a curve and lost control of his auto. The vehicle swerved across the highway, went over an eight-foot embankment, and through a fence before it came to a halt.

Heavy damage was inflicted on the auto, Patrolmen added.

TRUCK-CAR ACCIDENT — Three persons received minor injuries when this car, driven by Darol Topp, of Kalamazoo, Mich., collided with a truck driven by Jacob Scharenberg, Route 2. Topp and his two sons were treated for lacerations and abrasions at Berger Hospital.

Three Are Slightly Injured In Collision on Route 23

Three Kalamazoo, Mich., residents were slightly injured in a car-truck collision at the junction of Huston St. and Route 22 at 2:25 p. m. yesterday.

Treated at Berger Hospital for lacerations and abrasions were Darol Topp, 32, of Kalamazoo, Mich., and his two sons, Wayne, 4, and Stephen, 7. They were released after treatment.

The accident occurred when Jacob Scharenberg, 80, Route 2, driver of the truck, made a left turn from the southbound lane of Route 23 onto Huston St. The Topp vehicle was headed north.

The Topp automobile was heavily damaged. Scharenberg's truck received only minor damage. He was not injured.

SCHARENBERG was cited by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff George Linder for failure to yield the right of way.

Still under investigation by Deputy William Pontious is an accident that occurred 8 p. m. yesterday at the junction of Route 22 and 56.

Charles Kerns, 21, of Route 1, and Fred Cullums, 19, of 217 E. High St. were involved.

Kerns told Pontious Cullum was approaching from the opposite direction in the wrong lane of traffic.

According to the deputy's report Cullum admitted being on the wrong side of the road. He said he attempted to turn into the parking lot at the A and W Drive In, but was unable to avoid the collision.

Both drivers received minor injuries. Extensive damage was done to the Kerns vehicle, a 1963 model car. Damage to the other auto was estimated at $300.

One Injured In Collision

One driver suffered minor injuries in a collision involving four vehicles 1:20 p. m. yesterday on Route 23 near Route 762.

Treated and released at Berger Hospital was Clayton Carter, 19, Columbus, Ga. He suffered lacerations of the face and body abrasions. The car he was driving was pulling an unoccupied auto.

The other two vehicles were operated by Hildegard Thomas, 27, of Ashville and Charles H. Drummond, 60, Chillicothe. State Highway Patrolmen said they were not injured.

Patrolmen said the accident came when steam from a faulty cooling system on the Drummond truck obscured the vision of all three vehicles. They said the car being towed broke loose and struck the Thomas car.

Mrs. Thomas, unable to stop in time, struck the Drummond vehicle.

River 6 Feet

this would cause no major flooding.

However, the Scioto River, which had been falling, began to rise slowly again today. Ice-jamming at Prospect in Marion County lifted the river to almost five feet over flood stage, while at Piketon the Scioto was almost 13 feet over flood stage.

Four deaths connected with the storm had been counted in Ohio. They included two drowning victims, a utility repairman who fell from a pole during a storm and a truck driver whose rig crashed on a foggy, rain-slick highway.

Cleanup operations had begun in outlying areas of Wilmington, Hamilton and Middletown as floodwaters receded. But in Warren County, evacuees totaled over 400 families—240 at Morrow, 80 in South Lebanon, 50-57 from Oregon and perhaps as many from the Foster area. Many of the homeless were staying with other families and at hotels.

Other late reports of evacuations came from Shelby County, where the Ohio Highway Patrol joined sheriff's deputies in rescuing 16 families in the village of Port Jefferson. In Darke County, authorities needed a boat to rescue Mrs. Carl Rose and a small child from their flooded home at Stillwater Beach.

Rainfall measurements from the Columbus Weather Bureau early Wednesday were encouraging. In a six-hour period ending at 1 a. m., Cincinnati with .36 of an inch had received the most rain. Columbus had .28 of an inch and Dayton .17.

received only minor damage. He was not injured.

SCHARENBERG was cited by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff George Linder for failure to yield the right of way.

Still under investigation by Deputy William Pontious is an accident that occurred 8 p. m. yesterday at the junction of Route 22 and 56.

Charles Kerns, 21, of Route 1, and Fred Cullums, 19, of 217 E. High St. were involved.

Kerns told Pontious Cullum was approaching from the opposite direction in the wrong lane of traffic.

According to the deputy's report Cullum admitted being on the wrong side of the road. He said he attempted to turn into the parking lot at the A and W Drive In, but was unable to avoid the collision.

Both drivers received minor injuries. Extensive damage was done to the Kerns vehicle, a 1963 model car. Damage to the other auto was estimated at $300.

One Injured In Collision

One driver suffered minor injuries in a collision involving four vehicles 1:20 p. m. yesterday on Route 23 near Route 782.

Treated and released at Berger Hospital was Clayton Carter, 19, Columbus, Ga. He suffered lacerations of the face and body abrasions. The car he was driving was pulling an unoccupied auto.

The other two vehicles were operated by Hildegarde Thomas, 27, of Ashville and Charles H. Drummond, 60, Chillicothe. State Highway Patrolmen said they were not injured.

Patrolmen said the accident came when steam from a faulty cooling system on the Drummond truck obscured the vision of all three vehicles. They said the car being towed broke loose and struck the Thomas car.

Mrs. Thomas, unable to stop in time, struck the Drummond vehicle.

Two Circleville Drivers Handed Heavy Penalties

Two Circleville motorists were handed stiff fines and sentences by Judge Sterling Lamb in Municipal Court today.

Ronald L. Keaton, 21, 309 E. Franklin St. and Ernest Hartinger, 66, 460 Dearborn Ave., were each found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

Judge Lamb handed each of them a $150 fine, sentenced them to three days in the county jail and suspended their operators' licenses for six months.

In addition Keaton was cited for failure to have an operator's license by Circleville Patrolman Richard Anderson and fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days with the sentence to run consecutively with the other.

Hartinger, cited into court by Sgt. Leroy Hawkes, City Police, was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and fined an additional $100 and costs and handed a five day jail sentence.

Dennis Brown, the owner of the vehicle Keaton was driving, was charged with permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his vehicle and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to five days in jail. Judge Lamb ordered his jail sentence suspended and placed Brown on probation for one year.

In other Municipal court traffic action one motorist appeared in court while three signed waivers of court hearings and paid the fines levied.

Delbert DeVoss, 49, Columbus, was fined $50 and costs by the court for driving the wrong way on a divided highway.

Signing waivers were: Clayton Carter, 19, Columbus, Ga.; $30 and costs for failure to have an operator's license.

John McNichols, 40, Laurelville; $15 and costs for driving left of center.

Earl E. Steele, 43, Route 1; $30 and costs for permitting an unlicensed minor to operate a motor vehicle.

Charles R. Workman, 20, Grove City; $50 and costs for operating a motor vehicle equipped with fictitious license plates. Workman appeared in Court Monday.

JFK Still Expects Congress To OK Tax Cut, Revision

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today he still wants tax reductions linked with tax revisions and it is his judgment that Congress will enact a bill embracing both.

Kennedy did not say whether he would, if necessary, accept a tax reforms.

The first question at a presidential news conference was aimed at trying to clear up exactly what he would accept in tax legislation.

Kennedy has proposed that Congress lower taxes by $13.6 billion over three years and offset this by tax revisions which would bring in $3.5 billion—for a net cut of about $10 billion.

Then last week he said the important thing is to get a tax bill this year, and: "Whatever is necessary to get that bill, I would support."

Some of his remarks to a symposium on economic growth sponsored by the American Bankers Association, were interpreted as meaning he would accept a $13.6 billion slash and, if need be, abandon his bid for offsetting changes in the revenue laws.

Asked whether that was a fair interpretation, Kennedy replied that he thought the best program was the one he had sent to Congress.

He said he felt Congress would enact this type of bill—one including the proposed revisions.

Kennedy opened the news conference with a volunteered statement plugging for congressional action on three legislative proposals.

He said he hopes the youth opportunities bill can be enacted before Congress takes its Easter recess.

He noted hearings have been completed in the House on legislation to help produce more doctors and dentists. The talents of professions are needed, he said, and he hopes the bill will be passed.

He urged prompt attention to his legislative recommendations in the field of mental health.

Soon after the question period began, the President was asked about the four U.S. aviators who lost their lives in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs Cuban invasion. Were they employees of the government or the CIA?

Kennedy did not directly answer the question. He said it was a voluntary flight, and that the men were serving their country. Many times over the past years, Kennedy said, Americans have served their nation but he added that it isn't helpful to U.S. interests to go into details.

Kennedy was asked a three-part question, about the number of Russian military personnel in Cuba, but he obviously didn't want to make any comment on this.

"No," he said. "My answer would be no to all of them."

To a further question, Kennedy said he had seen charges that the administration has held up information on the Soviet buildup in Cuba.

"In hindsight," he said, "perhaps we could have picked up this information a few days earlier—but not many days earlier."

The President added that, "I feel the intelligence services did a very good job."

After all, he said, the missile bases were detected and exposed.

Kennedy was asked also about plans for continuing to deal with the Cuban problem, especially what he may discuss during his forthcoming visit to Costa Rica.

The President said the problem is people coming and leaving Cuba. The problem is one for other Latin-American countries, he said—each country for itself must keep track of these comings and goings, who the people are and what happens to them. Also, he said, there are the questions of trade, diplomatic representation and the West.

He would hope, he went on, that the other American republics would work with the United States in trying to isolate communism in Cuba.

Safe Opened; Second Entry Attempt Fails

Circleville Police today were investigating an entry at the Farm Bureau Home, E. Main St., where a safe was "punched."

Sgt. Turney Ross said $10 was taken from the safe. Several file cabinets in the building were opened, but nothing else was reported missing.

Sgt. Ross and Patrolman Larry Pontious also were called early today to investigate an attempted burglary at the Blue Ribbon Dairy S. Pickaway St.

Officers said efforts to open a front door at the dairy were unsuccessful.

ENTRY at the Farm Bureau building was gained through large double doors on the front side. Sgt. Ross said the intruders then slipped into the offices through an interior window.

The money was the only loot removed from the safe, officers reported.

Minor Injuries Are Listed in 1-Car Mishap

Minor injuries were suffered by a three-year-old in a one-car mishap yesterday on Route 56, about one-half mile southeast of Route 159.

Injured was Daniel Gardner, 3, a passenger in an auto driven by his father, Arthur B. Gardner, 62, of Columbus. He suffered lacerations of the face and a possible broken nose. The youth's mother, Rose Gardner, also a passenger, was not injured, according to the State Highway Patrol.

Patrolmen said Gardner apparently failed to negotiate a curve and lost control of his auto. The vehicle swerved across the highway, went over an eight-foot embankment, and through a fence before it came to a halt.

Heavy damage was inflicted on the auto, Patrolmen added.

No More Foot Dragging

A special security committee of the Organization of American States has concluded "it is clear that Cuba is being used as a base for training in communism and its spread in America."

The committee's report mentions nine schools in Cuba where hundreds of Latin Americans have been trained "not only in Marxist-Leninist theory, but also in propaganda techniques, the use of arms and explosives, sabotage, guerilla warfare and so on."

The committee has recommended a campaign to isolate Cuba and curtail these subversive activities. Specifically suggested are a ban on travel to and from Cuba, suppression of communist propaganda material such as films and publications, and measures directed at halting the flow of money to communist groups in the Americas.

It also suggested indirectly that nations in the Americas still maintaining diplomatic relations with Castro sever them. Diplomatic channels offer a means for promoting and financing subversion, the committee warned.

It is of the utmost importance that precautions be taken, not only against Cuba where the communist menace is obvious and acknowledged, but also against any other countries that might act as centers of subversion in this hemisphere.

It would, however, be more difficult to gain the necessary support for the broader program and the recommendations of the OAS committee should be implemented without further foot dragging as a start in the right direction.

Pollution Problems

Representative Reuss of Wisconsin has introduced a bill prohibiting the importation of interstate shipment of detergent. The bill reflects justifiable congressional concern about the pollution of water supplies by detergents, which in some parts of the U. S. is producing a glass of drinking water topped by suds.

The use of detergents has been prohibited in West Germany, but before Congress adopts such a course it ought to consider the real significance of a glass of water foaming with detergent. This is a warning that wastes far more dangerous than detergents may be seeping into drinking water.

Perhaps detergents should be prohibited on aesthetic grounds, but from a public health standpoint this would be treating the symptom, not the disease. And by removing visible evidence of pollution it might lessen public pressure for applying the only safe and effective remedy—more sewer systems.

Khrushchev and Sugar

A year ago the world price for sugar was about $5.50 a hundredweight below the artificial U. S. price, federally controlled to protect and subsidize the domestic sugar industry. Today the world price is equal to or above the U. S. level. The reason for the reversal is a world shortage.

But in the background is a hodge-podge of factors that give the price picture the look of abstractionism. Among them are the effects of Castro's barter deal with Khrushchev, Cuba's dwindling crop under communist collectivism, beet and cane failures in Europe, and the U. S. Sugar Act, extended by Congress last year.

At one time Cuba was the leading producers and U. S. supplier. For the last two years, however, Russia has taken most of the island's crop, or what is now left of it. But Khrushchev has been hoarding much of Cuba's sugar in an apparent effort to manipulate the world market.

We Call It Progress

By John Chamberlain

We call it progress, but: We force ourselves, by inflating our car prices and our gasoline taxes, into riding around in small uncomfortable bugs instead of automobiles with room enough to stretch our legs in the back seats.

We build powerful jets capable of breaching the sound barrier — and make it impossible to land in airports sufficiently close to cities to make air travel the attractive thing it might be.

We raise postage rates — and start a swing to answering our mail with cramped four-cent postcards instead of with letters that give thoughts an opportunity to expand.

We establish all sorts of compulsory social insurance — and unemployment compensation and make it impossible to find a man to mow the lawn or an efficient cook who will be willing to "live in."

We exalt the "white collar" type of job — and force grown men and women into doing their own "blue collar" work under the heading of

"do it yourself." Thus we give up all the advantages won a couple of centuries ago by the discovery that civilization grows by application of the principle of the division of labor.

We join unions to improve wage and working conditions — and find ourselves involved in costly strikes that eat up several years' possible wage increases before we ever get them.

We vote for the local pork barrel gift from Washington D. C. — and find ourselves shipping to the U.S. Treasury far more in tax money than we ever get back in benefits.

We develop new fertilizers and machinery capable of providing ourselves with an abundance of food with little outlay of work — and raise the price of food on every dinner table by a costly apparatus of price supports that do not help the marginal or subsistence farmer, who can't afford the new fertilizers and machinery.

We establish truly competitive conditions in transportation by developing truck fleets and air lines — and continue to hobble the railroads by forcing them to obey the ill-considered dictates of an Interstate Commerce Commission that was established in 1887, when the railroads were "monopolistic" in areas that lacked waterborne alternatives to rail shipping.

We invent devices that would make it possible to get the benefits of "pay-as-you-see" television — and discover that the FCC, which was originally established to parcel out wave lengths to broadcasting companies, has taken it upon itself to tell companies how they shall or shall not finance the business of providing television entertainment.

We fight a tremendous battle at the Versailles Peace Conference of 1919 to force the world to respect the principle of "self-determination" of peoples, and subsequently we apply the principle in Algeria, Togoland, Pakistan and wherever — but when Moise Tshombe takes our principle seriously in Katanga we knock him on the head.

We worry about the possible depletion of our home crude oil supply — and put restrictive quotas on the importation of oil from overseas reservoirs.

We develop new building materials — and find ourselves unable to use them because building "regulations", established in the age of stone and wood, prohibit their use until they can undergo a test that is illegal in the first place.

We exalt an educational philosophy that makes it the business of the schoolteacher to see to it that students are "adjusted to life" but the people who have been taught in school that "adjustment" is everything and self-trust is nothing find themselves going to mental hospitals in droves.

Note to the compilers of the next edition of Webster's International Dictionary: When you define "progress" in terms of the contemporary usage of the term, please call it a synonym for insanity.

More than 18 million people in the United States were receiving over a billion dollars a month in old-age, survivors and disability Social Security benefits at the close of 1962.

Try and Stop Me

THE ONLY TIME I saw the late William Faulkner flare up at a public reception was when a well-meaning hostess sought to add water to a slug of Faulkner's favorite brew. The distinguished author pulled his glass back sharply, and pointed out, "If the good Lord had intended water to be in it, madam, He'd have put it there!"

Father Kinkell was trying to get his young son to do more physical exercise. "When I was your age," he pointed out, "I thought nothing of a stiff twenty-mile hike." Young Kinkell nodded agreement, and said, "I don't think much of it either."

Guide to Better Health

By HARRY J. JOHNSON, M.D.

If you are unhappy with your doctor, don't try to evaluate whether he is a "good" or "poor" doctor. It is far better to find a doctor with whom you can be happy, confident.

It has often been remarked by both doctors and patients that modern physicians as a group have lost much of the respect and affection they had a generation or so ago. Regrettably, I am inclined to feel this is true. Apparently, many yearn for the charm and sympathetic affability of the nineteenth-century physician.

A sociologist, Dr. Earl L. Koos, made a study of attitudes of patients toward their doctors. In questioning a representative sample of Rochester, New York, residents, he discovered that more than sixty per cent complained of doctors being "cold, remote, impersonal, and hasty."

A young mother said to Dr. Koos: "I'm sure my doctor knows his medicine. From that point of view I am satisfied. But when we go to his office, I feel like a machine on an assembly line.... If we could only feel that we mean some thing to our doctor, I'd be happier with him. I guess I want a good old-fashioned doctor."

I doubt that this young mother would send for the old-fashioned doctor instead of today's physician if any member of her family were gravely ill. People seem to forget that yesterday's doctor had very little more than faith, hope, charity, and charm to go on. His bag of medical "magic" consisted of perhaps six different drugs and a few rudimentary instruments.

Sometime before World War I, a revolution in medical practice began within the ranks of physicians. As more and more scientific advances were made, the physician found it necessary to learn new arts and to develop the keen eye of a clinician, which frequently necessitates a cold, calm scientific appraisal of patients.

In the old days, the doctor was a frequent visitor to the home. I would say that he probably saw his patients more at their homes than in his office, even in surgical cases. Nowadays, thanks to pre-paid hospital insurance, many patients are sent to the hospital for even relatively minor surgery or medical care.

And in the hospital, the physician sees only the patient, in contrast to a home visit where he saw everyone else at home. Then, of course, there were return visits to the home, for the doctor wanted to be sure there would be no relapse.

All this enabled the doctor to get to know everyone in the family. Often he carried in his mind a veritable catalog of all the family's functional disorders.

Today, the doctor making a house call reaches into his vast bag of antibiotics and gives the patient a quick shot. He may not return unless the family calls to say that the patient is not responding to the prescribed treatment.

This means that more than ever before you must be sure to get the most out of every visit with the doctor, whether it takes place at his office or in your home. In a large measure, the burdens is upon you. You must reveal everything that is on your mind about your health.

APPEALS TO GIRLS — Gen. Heinz Hoffmann, East German defense minister, has appealed to East German girls to stop writing "Dear Klaus" letters to his soldiers in which they jilt the soldiers for joining the army. Soldiers who have fled to the West say many East German girls refuse to go out with soldiers, especially those who guard the Berlin Wall.

NEW YORK (AP)—American firms investing abroad are accused of everything from exporting jobs to a share in the blame for the shrinkage of the Treasury's gold hoard.

And some have wondered if they weren't caught in the middle in the fight between France and Britain over the future make-up of the European Common Market. Some are taking a second look at their plans for investing there.

But some kind words for American investors are coming today from two sources.

The president of the European Economic Community, Walter Hallstein, says that some American products will be getting a better break in their bid for the rich European market and that American capital there won't be penalized.

He adds that eventually Britain will be admitted to the Common Market, even if today French President Charles de Gaulle opposes it. And American investments abroad may slow their fast pace of recent years for economic rather than political reasons, whether these be European objections or American policy.

The second source, an American bank with much international business, takes a look at the role of American investments abroad. Its verdict: The private sector of the U.S. economy has a good report card. It hasn't added to the U.S. deficit in the balance of payments, but has offset it to some extent. The economists at the First National City Bank of New York hold that the deficit comes from government dealings of various kinds with other nations.

In addition, European investments in the United States top American private investments abroad by $15 billion to $11 billion.

The implied inference: U.S. industry is getting more financial help from abroad in creating jobs than American investments so far have added to the European economy.

The other side of the picture is conceded by the U.S. Department of Commerce which says government grants and capital outflows do affect our foreign trade. It adds there's the complication of "private capital outflows which may stimulate exports while the capital is transferred, but, in some instances, may contribute to with our domestically produced goods."

Tackling the investment problem in its monthly economic letter, the New York bank says that in 1962 private long-term investments abroad came to $2.4 billion, private short-term assets abroad increased by $600 million, and probably another $900 million flowed abroad unrecorded.

But offsetting this the bank puts income on investments abroad as $3.6 billion and the long-term capital inflow from abroad at $500 million. This gives the private sector a $200 million assist to the balance of payments.

Stardom Costs Broken Bones

NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood stardom has its price.

You're Telling Me!

By WILLIAM RITT

A Japanese firm is offering an electric hairbrush which radiates infra-red rays to promote hair health, we read. Even if it doesn't it should give your scalp that pleasant tingling feeling!

Meanwhile, a U. S. expedition —1,000 strong—is attempting to scale Mt. Everest. Now, that'll really be ganging up on the big boy!

Some 950 of the Everest climbers are porters who carry food and equipment. Sounds like they plan on quite a stay.

See where a two-year-old Chichuahua, who lives in Wantagh, N. Y., was given a $200 custom-built chinchilla coat by her proud owners as a birthday present. Now watch that little pooch put on the dog!

The height of snobbery, says Zadok Dumkopf, is when a person comes to think he's above catching a cold.

The price for Glenn Ford has been broken bones. Perhaps no other durable star of his stature—he has made more than 100 pictures—has had his ribs snapped more often in the service of the cinema.

"I love Western roles," he said, "but over the years I've had a couple of dozen bones broken in them. Somehow I never get hurt in anything except Westerns."

"A horse is the most dangerous animal there is."

Glenn could avoid equestrian perils by hiring a double. It is a point of pride with him that he never has.

"I like to do my own riding," he said. "I used to work as an exercise boy when I was 14 or 15 for Will Rogers. He sensed that I loved horses, and he taught me to ride by letting me warm up his polo ponies."

"I have no patience with actors who depend on doubles to perform dangerous feats. They cheat the audience," Ford said.

"I think if you can't do what the role calls for, then you ought to turn it down. If you're going to play the part of a man, then be a man."

Ford is an acknowledged master rider. The Rodeo Cowboys Association voted him the best horseman in pictures in 1959 and 1960, and he is prouder of this honor than any other he has ever won.

Glenn, who came to Santa Monica from Canada during his boyhood, started acting in high school. After some stage experience—has had his ribs snapped more often in the service of the cinema.

In recent years he has been something of a perennial among the nation's 10 top-ranked stars at the box office. Unlike some stellar performers, Ford sees no danger in appearing in two or even three pictures a year.

"I don't believe you run the risk of overexposure if you have good material," he said. "If a good story comes along, I'm glad to make it."

Blind Infant Is Abandoned In Hospital

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A mother abandoned her 2- or 3-year-old son on a couch in Jefferson Davis Hospital lobby Tuesday.

He is blind and spastic. His name is Keith. He has brown hair and brown eyes.

He was clad in blue pajamas with a white blanket and appeared well-cared for.

His mother attached a note. "Keith's been in the hospital before. I've tried everything possible to get him medical help like he needs. It just doesn't seem like anyone will help us because I do not have any money."

"You may think I am cruel but this is the only way out. God knows how hard I have tried."

"I love him with all my heart, but I can't see him being in pain all the time and no one to help him. I didn't think people could be so cruel, being in this big city where they have so many doctors and conveniences which he needs so badly."

"Keith was 6½ months old when he fell. Normal up to then. Doctors said he had brain damage from the fall."

"He cries almost constantly like he's in bad pain. He can't sit up, eat out of a spoon, crawl or walk."

"I haven't got a high school education and I can't get a good job making enough to keep Keith and my daughter."

"My ex-husband is in a mental institution and I don't get support from him. Please take care of him and get him well."

A doctor who examined the boy said it appeared his malady was congenital, and not from a fall.

The child was turned over to the County Probation Department.

No More Foot Dragging

A special security committee of the Organization of American States has concluded "it is clear that Cuba is being used as a base for training in communism and its spread in America."

The committee's report mentions nine schools in Cuba where hundreds of Latin Americans have been trained "not only in Marxist-Leninist theory, but also in propaganda techniques, the use of arms and explosives, sabotage, guerilla warfare and so on."

The committee has recommended a campaign to isolate Cuba and curtail these subversive activities. Specifically suggested are a ban on travel to and from Cuba, suppression of communist propaganda material such as films and publications, and measures directed at halting the flow of money to communist groups in the Americas.

It also suggested indirectly that nations in the Americas still maintaining diplomatic relations with Castro sever them. Diplomatic channels offer a means for promoting and financing subversion, the committee warned.

It is of the utmost importance that precautions be taken, not only against Cuba where the communist menace is obvious and acknowledged, but also against any other countries that might act as centers of subversion in this hemisphere.

It would, however, be more difficult to gain the necessary support for the broader program and the recommendations of the OAS committee should be implemented without further foot dragging as a start in the right direction.

Pollution Problems

Representative Reuss of Wisconsin has introduced a bill prohibiting the importation of interstate shipment of detergent. The bill reflects justifiable congressional concern about the pollution of water supplies by detergents, which in some parts of the U. S. is producing a glass of drinking water topped by suds.

The use of detergents has been prohibited in West Germany, but before Congress adopts such a course it ought to consider the real significance of a glass of water foaming with detergent. This is a warning that wastes far more dangerous than detergents may be seeping into drinking water.

Perhaps detergents should be prohibited on aesthetic grounds, but from a public health standpoint this would be treating the symptom, not the disease. And by removing visible evidence of pollution it might lessen public pressure for applying the only safe and effective remedy—more sewer systems.

Khrushchev and Sugar

A year ago the world price for sugar was about $3.50 a hundredweight below the artificial U. S. price, federally controlled to protect and subsidize the domestic sugar industry. Today the world price is equal to or above the U. S. level. The reason for the reversal is a world shortage.

But in the background is a hodge-podge of factors that give the price picture the look of abstractionism. Among them are the effects of Castro's barter deal with Khrushchev, Cuba's dwindling crop under communist collectivism, beet and cane failures in Europe, and the U. S. Sugar Act, extended by Congress last year.

At one time Cuba was the leading producers and U. S. supplier. For the last two years, however, Russia has taken most of the island's crop, or what is now left of it. But Khrushchev has been hoarding much of Cuba's sugar in an apparent effort to manipulate the world market.

We Call It Progress

By John Chamberlain

We call it progress, but: We force ourselves, by inflating our car prices and our gasoline taxes, into riding around in small uncomfortable bugs instead of automobiles with room enough to stretch our legs in the back seats.

We build powerful jets capable of breaching the sound barrier — and make it impossible to land in airports sufficiently close to cities to make air travel the attractive thing it might be.

We raise postage rates — and start a swing to answering our mail with cramped four-cent postcards instead of with letters that give thoughts an opportunity to expand.

We establish all sorts of compulsory social insurance — and unemployment compensation — and make it impossible to find a man to mow the lawn or an efficient cook who will be willing to "live in."

We exalt the "white collar" type of job — and force grown men and women into doing their own "blue collar" work under the heading of

"do it yourself." Thus we give up all the advantages won a couple of centuries ago by the discovery that civilization grows by application of the principle of the division of labor.

We join unions to improve wage and working conditions — and find ourselves involved in costly strikes that eat up several years' possible wage increases before we ever get them.

We vote for the local pork barrel gift from Washington D. C. — and find ourselves shipping to the U. S. Treasury far more in tax money than we ever get back in benefits.

We develop new fertilizers and machinery capable of providing ourselves with an abundance of food with little outlay of work — and raise the price of food on every dinner table by a costly apparatus of price supports that do not help the marginal or subsistence farmer who can't afford the new fertilizers and machinery.

We establish truly competitive conditions in transportation by developing truck fleets and air lines — and continue to hobble the railroads by forcing them to obey the ill-considered dictates of an Interstate Commerce Commission that was established in 1887, when the railroads were "monopolistic" in areas that lacked waterborne alternatives to rail shipping.

We invent devices that would make it possible to get the benefits of "pay-as-you-see" television — and discover that the FCC, which was originally established to parcel out wave lengths to broadcasting companies, has taken it upon itself to tell companies how they shall or shall not finance the business of providing television entertainment.

We fight a tremendous battle at the Versailles Peace Conference of 1919 to force the world to respect the principle of "self-determination" of peoples, and subsequently we apply the principle in Algeria, Togoland, Pakistan and elsewhere — but when Moise Tshombe takes our principle seriously in Katanga we knock him on the head.

We worry about the possible depletion of our home crude oil supply — and put restrictive quotas on the importation of oil from overseas reservoirs.

We develop new building materials — and find ourselves unable to use them because building "regulations," established in the age of stone and wood, prohibit their use until they can undergo a test that is illegal in the first place.

We exalt an educational philosophy that makes it the business of the schoolteacher to see to it that students are "adjusted to life" but the people who have been taught in school that "adjustment" is everything and self-trust is nothing find themselves going to mental hospitals in droves.

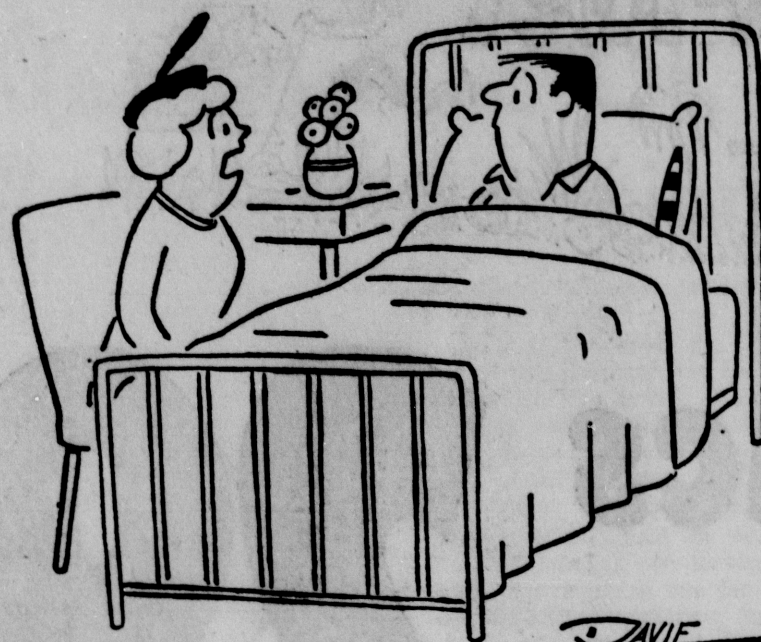

Note to the compilers of the next edition of Webster's International Dictionary: When you define "progress" in terms of the contemporary usage of the term, please call it a synonym for insanity.

More than 18 million people in the United States were receiving over a billion dollars a month in old-age, survivors and disability Social Security benefits at the close of 1962.

THE ONLY TIME I saw the late William Faulkner flare up at a public reception was when a well-meaning hostess sought to add water to a slug of Faulkner's favorite brew. The distinguished author pulled his glass back sharply, and pointed out, "If the good Lord had intended water to be in it, madam, He'd have put it there!"

Father Kinkell was trying to get his young son to do more physical exercise. "When I was your age," he pointed out, "I thought nothing of a stiff twenty-mile hike." Young Kinkell nodded agreement, and said, "I don't think much of it either."

Guide to Better Health

By HARRY J. JOHNSON, M.D.

If you are unhappy with your doctor, don't try to evaluate whether he is a "good" or "poor" doctor. It is far better to find a doctor with whom you can be happy, confident.

It has often been remarked by both doctors and patients that modern physicians as a group have lost much of the respect and affection they had a generation or so ago. Regrettably, I am inclined to feel this is true. Apparently, many years for the charm and sympathetic affability of the nineteenth-century physician.

A sociologist, Dr. Earl L. Koos, made a study of attitudes of patients toward their doctors. In questioning a representative sample of Rochester, New York, residents, he discovered that more than sixty per cent complained of doctors being "cold, remote, impersonal, and hasty."

A young mother said to Dr. Koos: "I'm sure my doctor knows his medicine. From that point of view I am satisfied. But when we go to his office, I feel like a machine on an assembly line.... If we could only feel that we mean some thing to our doctor, I'd be happier with him. I guess I want a good old-fashioned doctor."

I doubt that this young mother would send for the old-fashioned doctor instead of today's physician if any member of her family were gravely ill. People seem to forget that yesterday's doctor had very little more than faith, hope, charity, and charm to go on. His bag of medical "magic" consisted of perhaps six different drugs and a few rudimentary instruments.

This means that more than ever before you must be sure to get the most out of every visit with the doctor, whether it takes place at his office or in your home. In a large measure, the burdens is upon you. You must reveal everything that is on your mind about your health.

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—A patient in Madison County Hospital can thank a long distance operator that he is still alive.

Jerry Stahl, 34, of London was nearly overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a gas heater in his home early Tuesday and tried to obtain help by telephone.

Mrs. Cora Stada, an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. operator at Columbus, responded to the long distance service flash on her switch board, but Stahl was only able to moan and mumble the word "gas."

For nearly 30 minutes, Mrs. Stada and Mrs. Dorothy Watson, chief night operator, urged Stahl to give them his name or whereabouts.

Finally they succeeded and the operators telephoned London police, who found Stahl unconscious. He was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

'Hello Girls' Help Save Man's Life

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—A patient in Madison County Hospital can thank a long distance operator that he is still alive.

Jerry Stahl, 34, of London was nearly overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a gas heater in his home early Tuesday and tried to obtain help by telephone.

Mrs. Cora Stada, an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. operator at Columbus, responded to the long distance service flash on her switch board, but Stahl was only able to moan and mumble the word "gas."

For nearly 30 minutes, Mrs. Stada and Mrs. Dorothy Watson, chief night operator, urged Stahl to give them his name or whereabouts.

Finally they succeeded and the operators telephoned London police, who found Stahl unconscious. He was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Business Education Studied by Chamber

A three-year business education program for this area is under study by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Preliminary characteristics of the plan were introduced by L. D. Varble, chairman of the Chambers business education committee. The program was outlined during a regular monthly session yesterday at Boyer's Restaurant.

The business - education plan is designed to show the free enterprise system in action. As presented by Varble, the suggested plan is for school teachers to visit local industry and retail trade firms to gain a clear understanding of various operations.

In the second year students would visit the industries and retail firms seeking the same objectives as the teachers. Then during the third year Chamber members would visit schools and become better acquainted with some of the problems which exist there.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren Cat's Out of the Bag!

DEAR ABBY: We have a big gray angora cat who has used up all her nine lives. We dumped her out in the country about seven times and each time we took her about ten miles from home, but she always found her way home again. Would anybody like to have our cat?

VICKIE IN COLDWATER

DEAR VICKIE: Don't you know that it is cruel to "dump" a cat out in the country? It could die of starvation or exposure. Tell your Daddy to call the Animal Shelter if you can't find a friend or neighbor who wants a big gray angora cat which has used up all its lives.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a widow for a year. I am 55, have never been married and do not particularly care for children, and she has three. They are average teen-agers who get on my nerves when I'm around them for over an hour. This woman puts her children first and I'm afraid if I marry her she would soon have me playing second fiddle to her children. I love her but I don't like her set-up. Also, the expense of a ready-made family frightens me. Any advice?

FRIGHTENED

DEAR FRIGHTENED: Yes, plenty. Find yourself a childless woman or one who is "unbearable." Or one with grown children who would be no expense to you. You might "love" this woman, but your letter reveals a man who would say "I do" and then wonder why he did.

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago I divorced my husband (his name was JONES) and I had a son whom I shall call JOE JONES. He is now 19. Ten years ago I married a man whom I shall call MR. SMITH. My son remained JOE JONES because his real father wouldn't permit my second husband to adopt him. Fine. When my son's friends come to the house they call me "MRS. JONES" because, after all, my son's name is JOE JONES, so it is a natural

A three-year business education program for this area is under study by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Preliminary characteristics of the plan were introduced by L. D. Varble, chairman of the Chamber's business education committee. The program was outlined during a regular monthly session yesterday at Boyer's Restaurant.

The business education plan is designed to show the free enterprise system in action. As presented by Varble, the suggested plan is for school teachers to visit local industry and retail trade firms to gain a clear understanding of various operations.

In the second year students would visit the industries and retail firms seeking the same objectives as the teachers. Then during the third year Chamber members would visit schools and become better acquainted with some of the problems which exist there.

IN OTHER business, Dr. David

Goldschmidt, membership chairman, announced plans for a one-day membership drive for the second week in April.

The member drive will start with a breakfast meeting. Following this committee members and directors will contact possible new members and those who have not rejoined in recent years.

Mayor Richard Penn, a guest at the meeting, discussed the findings on the sub-committee which is now working toward drawing up articles of agreement on countywide planning and zoning. His group will report on findings at the next meeting of the Advisory Council on planning and zoning, scheduled Mar. 21.

Approval was given for Mrs. E. R. Bennett, Chamber secretary, to attend the Institute of Organization Management which will be held at Michigan State University June 23-29. This week of intensive study is designed to offer the professional approach to Chamber management.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Cat's Out of the Bag!

DEAR ABBY: We have a big gray angora cat who has used up all her nine lives. We dumped her out in the country about seven times and each time we took her about ten miles from home, but she always found her way home again. Would anybody like to have our cat?

VICKIE IN COLDWATER
DEAR VICKIE: Don't you know that it is cruel to "dump" a cat out in the country? It could die of starvation or exposure. Tell your Daddy to call the Animal Shelter if you can't find a friend or neighbor who wants a big gray angora cat which has used up all its lives.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a widow for a year. I am 55, have never been married and do not particularly care for children, and she has three. They are average teen-agers who get on my nerves when I'm around them for over an hour. This woman puts her children first and I'm afraid if I marry her she would soon have me playing second fiddle to her children. I love her but I don't like her set-up. Also, the expense of a ready-made family frightens me. Any advice?

FRIGHTENED
DEAR FRIGHTENED: Yes, plenty. Find yourself a childless woman or one who is "unbearable." Or one with grown children who would be no expense to you. You might "love" this woman, but your letter reveals a man who would say "I do" and then wonder why he did.

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago I divorced my husband (his name was JONES) and I had a son whom I shall call JOE JONES. He is now 19. Ten years ago I married a man whom I shall call MR. SMITH. My son remained JOE JONES because his real father wouldn't permit my second husband to adopt him. Fine. When my son's friends come to the house they call me "MRS. JONES" because, after all, my son's name is JOE JONES, so it is a natural mistake. But when my husband is home and they call him "MR. JONES" he does a slow burn. Should I correct them on the spot while my husband is fuming with anger? Or should I let it go and let him fume?

MRS. SMITH
DEAR MRS. SMITH: Tell your son (privately) to advise his friends that MR. SMITH is your husband, and that you are MRS. SMITH. And that although MR. JONES is his father's name, MR. JONES doesn't live there any more.

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365 Beverly Hills, Calif.

Lost and Found

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — When a pup lost her master, she knew right where to go for help. The brown and white mongrel appeared at the city police station, dashing from side to side and wagged her tail frantically.

Police coincidentally found her 83-year-old owner wandering on a downtown street, unable to find his way home. The officers got them together by checking the dog's tags.

Arbitrators Often Accuse Both Sides in Union Strike

Editors Note: Following is the second of four articles dealing with current labor-management strife and the breakdown in collective bargaining.

By NORMAN WALKER
AP Labor Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In boxing, fighters are required to wear padded gloves, punch clean and observe rules designed to prevent slaughter. There's also a third man in the ring.

In labor relations, frequently bare knuckles and few rules apply. When a referee shows up he is likely to get tossed out on his ear.

The difference between the two, probably, is that fistfights is an ancient art. Collective bargaining is supposed to be an art but has not quite made it.

Generally when disastrous strikes occur, contestants seem to spend as much time mobilizing for battle as they do in figuring out how they can mutually compromise problems that have to be settled eventually anyway.

Take for example the 3-year-old "featherbedding" impasse on the railroads. Carriers wanted to eliminate jobs they say cost them $600 million in needless expense each year. Unions deny it. But arbitration led nowhere. The work rules continued unchanged while union and railroad representatives sparred in the courts.

On Monday the Supreme Court upheld the carriers' right to make rule changes. Now talks are scheduled for March 13 in Chicago, to discuss the jobs if the firemen—only one of the five unions involved.

A nationwide rail strike still looms. No negotiations have been held since last summer, though the bargainners had a duty to keep working steadily for a solution. Here was a clear case of collective bargaining failure.

An inventory of the faults and shortcomings of labor-management relations must include the frequent failure of both sides to face up to reality. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has touched on this.

"When a company representative says, at the bargaining table, 'I won't discuss what happens to people we have to lay off when we bring in new equipment; we're not running a charity ward—he is in effect asking the government to take over a responsibility, the discharge of which he will then later condemn, probably as 'socialism,'" Wirtz says.

"When a union representative meets that same problem by insisting that permanent sinecures be arranged for men no longer actually needed, he weakens collective bargaining by using it to produce a wrong answer, which won't stand up. An economy that must achieve full growth to survive and can't afford a manpower waste."

A good many factors complicate the labor relations process. Among them:

Government role. There is some feeling President Kennedy's administration is overly prone to intervene in labor troubles, and thereby encourages unions and employers to lay down on their bargaining task, waiting for Uncle Sam to bail them out.

Administration guideposts. Kennedy urges both sides to keep wage and price increases within the gains of economic productivity in order to keep down inflation. This has led to protests from both quarters that the government is interfering with private decision-making. The administration retorts it has a duty to make clear to the decision-makers the consequences of their actions on the over-all public interest. Mean-

Zanuck Says Firm To Make Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Darryl F. Zanuck says he is going to put 20th Century-Fox studio back in the business of making motion pictures.

When he took over the trouble-racked studio last summer practically his first action was to close it.

Zanuck said the studio will make at least 14 movies this year at a cost of $50 million and all but four of them will be filmed in Hollywood.

Zanuck said filming abroad does not save money. "You pay less in salaries but you take twice as long," he said.

Worshiper Is Blamed For Church Robbery

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Someone who lingered after Sunday night church services is the object of a police search.

Police said thieves took $200 cash and $1,500 worth of office equipment and supplies from Berea Baptist church. Officers theorized that someone hid in the church until everyone else left and then cleaned out the office.

while, wage-price levels have remained steady.

Delay. Frequently strikes are avoided for a while, then turned over to some special board for a recommended solution. This "cooling off" procedure is the theory behind the Taft-Hartley and Railway Labor Act emergency strike procedures.

Obsolete practices. Many labor contracts are cluttered with provisions that may have made sense at one time, but don't any more. Workers want to hang on to accustomed privileges the boss may find he can no longer afford.

Cushions. Part of the bargaining battle buildup often involves union accumulation of huge strike or "defense" funds to continue part pay for idle strikers. Employers who face a common union threat often regularly contribute to a strike insurance plan that can be tapped when any one of them is shut down. Increasingly such arrangements are making strikes easier on the combatants than on the non-combatants.

Patterns. This sometimes hurts both unions and employers. The idea is that after a collective bargaining agreement has been reached employers and unions in similar types of work are pressed to match the "pattern." Smaller steel companies, and fabricators, are compelled, for example, to take what the big steel companies negotiate; yet they have varying economic circumstances. Unions in the New York newspaper strike were balking against "pattern bargaining."

Union membership. Demands by unions on employers to require all employees to be union members, as under the union shop; or to at least pay union dues, as under the agency shop, create a fertile field for labor troubles. The issue caused a recent rash of strike threats against major missile-plane producing firms.

This is just a partial listing of labor problem areas. There are many more, including arguments on reducing work hours, overtime and seniority, squabbles between rival unions, agreements reached by negotiators later rejected by workers, over holidays, vacations, pensions, etc.

The results of bargaining are not always fair, but bargaining is a major means of dividing up productive wealth between workers and owners. It is never easy, but somehow disputes are usually peacefully compromised.

Zanuck Says Firm To Make Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Darryl F. Zanuck says he is going to put 20th Century-Fox studio back in the business of making motion pictures.

When he took over the troubled studio last summer practically his first action was to close it.

Zanuck said the studio will make at least 14 movies this year at a cost of $50 million and all but four of them will be filmed in Hollywood.

Zanuck said filming abroad does not save money. "You pay less in salaries but you take twice as long," he said.

Tax Agency Shakeup Set

$5 Million Annual Savings Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon announced Tuesday reorganization of the Internal Revenue Service aimed at saving about $5 million a year in overhead and administrative costs.

In the latter part of this year, operations will be trimmed in 12 of the present 62 district offices. Starting next Jan. 1, four other district offices will be merged with counterparts in the same state. Field office will be maintained in cities affected by the mergers.

As a result, Dillon said, IRS will be able to reduce its present nine regional offices to seven. The New York and Boston regions will consolidate in Boston. The Omaha and Chicago regions will be combined in Chicago.

As a further consequence, IRS will have automatic date processing service centers in seven instead of nine locations.

District offices which in the future will count on larger IRS installations nearby for expert and managerial help are those located at Aberdeen, S.D.; Fargo, N.D.; Helena, Mont.; Boise, Idaho; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Anchorage, Alaska; Reno, Nev.; Wilmington, Del.; Burlington, Kt.; Augusta, Maine; Portsmouth, N.H., and Providence, R.I.

As of the first of next year, the Syracuse district office will merge into the Buffalo district; Camden, N.J., into Newark; Kansas City into St. Louis; and Scranton, Pa., will be divided between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

With the reduced number of automatic data processing centers, installations once planned for the Detroit and New York areas will not be established.

Ohio County Fair 'Games' Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Representatives of 14 county fair boards turned out Tuesday for first hearing by the House Agriculture Committee on a bill to allow concession games at fairs.

Assistant Liquor Director John Case said a change would be proposed at a second hearing Thursday to prevent inclusion of pinball machines in violation of anti-gambling laws.

Blaine Sickles, counsel for the Greater Ohio Showman's Association, asserted the measure would not legalize pinball machines.

Sponsors of the bill said it applied to games of skill. They are Reps. Walter White, R-Allen; Chalmers Wylie, R-Franklin; Virtus Kruse, D-Fayette, and J. L. Frost, R-Brown.

January Excise Tax Collection Declines

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—January excise tax collections—levied on cigarettes, 3.2 per cent beer, wine and malt beverages—are the lowest for the month since 1960, state tax department figures show.

Collections in January amounted to about $7.3 million, compared with $7.6 million in January 1962 and $7.5 million in January 1961. In 1960, the January total was $6.6 million.

White House Gives Solons Break in Telling Good News

WASHINGTON (AP)—Last summer Margaret Chase Smith, Republican senator from Maine, wrote a blistering letter to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, accusing him of "playing politics with national defense."

It seems Mrs. Smith had first learned about the awarding of a contract for construction of a nuclear submarine at the Kittery, Maine, naval shipyard from a news story quoting her Democratic colleague, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

"As the senior senator from the state of Maine in which the shipyard is located, I resent this very obvious playing politics with national defense," she said.

McNamara's reply was not made public, but Muskie wrote Mrs. Smith:

"When I came to the Senate four years ago, it was quite apparent that it was much easier for the then Republican administration to communicate and to cooperate with the Republican members of Congress. I accepted this policy as a political fact of life.

"It would not be surprising if the situation were similar today."

Politicians like to be associated with good news, and it is good news for their state or district when a business snafu, a government contract, or a new dam, post office or similar project is announced.

It's an old story for an administration to give congressmen and senators of its own party the first chance at spreading good news.

The Kennedy administration appears to be playing this phase of politics more energetically and systematically. Many of the calls to Democratic members of Congress come direct from the White House instead of the agency or department awarding the contract.

"It's being done more effectively and with a greater lead time than it was done under Eisenhower," says an aide to a Republican senator, who loses out consistently to his Democratic colleague.

"Under Eisenhower, he always had the feeling that it was a more or less hit or miss proposition. If they thought about it, they gave us a break. These fellows work at it."

Pointing out the rough going administration proposals often have in the House, a member of Lawrence O'Brien's White House congressional liaison team comments, "We have to work harder at it than the Eisenhower people did."

"Our problems are different than those of the Eisenhower administration. They had to deal with a minority (Republican) group in Congress most of the time. Their efforts were mainly negative—to keep the Democrats from passing something they did not want. That's easier than trying to get something passed."

Rebel Radio Station Is Set Up in Cuba

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Pompano Beach Sun Sentinel said today an anti-Castro organization of more than 170 independent guerrilla units has set up a radio station in the Escambray Mountains of Cuba.

The newspaper said the station, known as "Radio Rebelde," carried its first broadcast a week ago.

The paper quoted unidentified sources as saying attacks against Fidel Castro's forces will be directed through the station.

GOP Solons Want To Probe Payments to Fliers' Wives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republican senators have suggested a Senate probe of the payments which four American women have been receiving since their husbands apparently lost their lives on a flying mission during the Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion attempt.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Monday he expects the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee, which now is delving into the Soviet military buildup in Cuba, will call witnesses to explain more about the payments.

He said he has no proof, but believes the $225 checks sent to the women every two weeks come from wealthy Cubans, the U.S. government or some other source.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has proposed a bipartisan committee to make a complete investigation of the U.S.-backed invasion attempt of April 1961. He said Monday it would be up to the committee whether to investigate the source of the payments.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the Preparedness Subcommittee chairman, told a reporter who asked about the proposals to investigate the payments:

"That matter and all others in this picture will be weighed," as the subcommittee charts the path it will pursue.

Up to now the subcommittee has taken the position that its interest is in the situation of Cuba now, rather than past events such as what happened at the Bay of Pigs.

The payments from the Bankers Trust Co. of New York were reported by the Nashville Tennessean after it had interviewed the four women.

A bank official said the bank never gives out information about the account of any customer.

An attorney representing the Double-Check Corp., said that the firm had acted as intermediary for a Central American group in Springs, Fla., but not before it "has sort of disbanded" said attorney Alex E. Carlton of Miami prings, Fla., but not before it authorized Double-Check to establish a trust fund to finance the payments.

Three of the women live in the Birmingham, Ala., area. They are Mrs. Thomas Willard Ray, Mrs. Wade C. Gray, and Mrs. Riley W. Hamburger Jr. The fourth, Mrs. Lee F. Baker, lives in the Los Angeles area.

Of the soybean oil produced in this country in 1962, 95.8 per cent went into edible products such as margarine and salad dressings, while only 4.2 per cent went for such industrial use as paint and ink manufacture.

Tax Agency Shakeup Set

$5 Million Annual Savings Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon announced Tuesday reorganization of the Internal Revenue Service aimed at saving about $5 million a year in overhead and administrative costs.

In the latter part of this year, operations will be trimmed in 12 of the present 62 district offices. Starting next Jan. 1, four other district offices will be merged with counterparts in the same state. Field office will be maintained in cities affected by the mergers.

As a result, Dillon said, IRS will be able to reduce its present nine regional offices to seven. The New York and Boston regions will consolidate in Boston. The Omaha and Chicago regions will be combined in Chicago.

As a further consequence, IRS will have automatic date processing service centers in seven instead of nine locations.

District offices which in the future will count on larger IRS installations nearby for expert and managerial help are those located at Aberdeen, S.D.; Fargo, N.D.; Helena, Mont.; Boise, Idaho; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Anchorage, Alaska; Reno, Nev.; Wilmington, Del.; Burlington, Kt.; Augusta, Maine; Portsmouth, N.H., and Providence, R.I.

As of the first of next year, the Syracuse district office will merge into the Buffalo district; Camden, N.J., into Newark; Kansas City into St. Louis; and Scranton, Pa., will be divided between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

With the reduced number of automatic date processing centers, installations once planned for the Detroit and New York areas will not be established.

Ohio County Fair 'Games' Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Representatives of 14 county fair boards turned out Tuesday for first hearing by the House Agriculture Committee on a bill to allow concession games at fairs.

Assistant Liquor Director John Case said a change would be proposed at a second hearing Thursday to prevent inclusion of pinball machines in violation of anti-gambling laws.

Blaine Sickles, counsel for the Greater Ohio Showman's Association, asserted the measure would not legalize pinball machines. Sponsors of the bill said it applied to games of skill. They are Reps. Walter White, R-Allen; Chalmers Wylie, R-Franklin; Virtus Kruse, D-Payette, and J. L. Frost, R-Brown.

January Excise Tax Collection Declines

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—January excise tax collections—levied on cigarettes, 3.2 per cent beer, wine and malt beverages—are the lowest for the month since 1960, state tax department figures show.

Collections in January amounted to about $7.3 million, compared with $7.6 million in January 1962 and $7.5 million in January 1961. In 1960, the January total was $6.6 million.

White House Gives Solons Break in Telling Good News

WASHINGTON (AP)—Last summer Margaret Chase Smith, Republican senator from Maine, wrote a blistering letter to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, accusing him of "playing politics with national defense."

It seems Mrs. Smith had first learned about the awarding of a contract for construction of a nuclear submarine at the Kittery, Maine, naval shipyard from a news story quoting her Democratic colleague, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

"As the senior senator from the state of Maine in which the shipyard is located, I resent this very obvious playing politics with national defense," she said.

McNamara's reply was not made public, but Muskie wrote Mrs. Smith:

"When I came to the Senate four years ago, it was quite apparent that it was much easier for the then Republican administration to communicate and to cooperate with the Republican members of Congress. I accepted this policy as a political fact of life."

"It would not be surprising if the situation were similar today." Politicians like to be associated with good news, and it is good news for their state or district when a business snags a government contract, or a new dam, post office or similar project is announced.

It's an old story for an administration.

Sidewalk Supers Get Special Treatment

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Sidewalk superintendents at the First National Bank building under construction here are getting red carpet treatment.

Speakers are being installed to pipe soft music. Eight buttons are being mounted on the barricades for spectators to push. The gadgets give a recorded progress report on the rising 25-story building.

tion to give congressmen and senators of its own party the first chance at spreading good news.

The Kennedy administration appears to be playing this phase of politics more energetically and systematically. Many of the calls to Democratic members of Congress come direct from the White House instead of the agency or department awarding the contract.

"It's being done more effectively and with a greater lead time than it was done under Eisenhower," says an aide to a Republican senator, who loses out consistently to his Democratic colleague.

"Under Eisenhower, he always had the feeling that it was a more or less hit or miss proposition. If they thought about it, they gave us a break. These fellows work at it."

Pointing out the rough going administration proposals often have in the House, a member of Lawrence O'Brien's White House congressional liaison team comments, "We have to work harder at it than the Eisenhower people did."

"Our problems are different than those of the Eisenhower administration. They had to deal with a minority (Republican) group in Congress most of the time. Their efforts were mainly negative—to keep the Democrats from passing something they did not want. That's easier than trying to get something passed."

There is some conflict on just how much edge the Democrats get over Republicans. Some cases have been reported of Republicans calling reporters with announcements received from Democrats as much as five days earlier.

One veteran public information man says, "The agencies give the White House at least 24 hours lead time (to notify Democrats in Congress) and they extract all the political gain they can therefrom. They are just practical, working politicians."

Rebel Radio Station Is Set Up in Cuba

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Pompano Beach Sun Sentinel said today an anti-Castro organization of more than 170 independent guerrilla units has set up a radio station in the Escambray Mountains of Cuba.

The newspaper said the station, known as "Radio Rebelde," carried its first broadcast a week ago.

The paper quoted unidentified sources as saying attacks against Fidel Castro's forces will be directed through the station.

Featherbedding Is Defined by Unions, Rails

"The name firemen is outmoded because he doesn't shovel coal," a union spokesman says. "But his presence is needed as supervisor of power; he supervises the diesel equipment and does engineroom work while the train is en route."

2. An overhaul of the wage structure, with pay geared to a combination of time and mileage. This is calculated to result in pay raises for 75 per cent of the workers while others could make up for pay cuts, in part, by putting in more hours and riding more miles.

Management holds the present pay structure to be a relic of a slow-moving era when a 100-mile trip was regarded as the equivalent of a full day's work.

The unions challenge the commission finding and contend wages actually would be cut and hours would be lengthened by the proposed changes. "It's hardly a pay increase," a union official said. "It would amount to a cut in pay as much as 80 per cent for locomotive engineers."

3. Railroads should have unlimited right to introduce new equipment and modernize operations. Workers who lost jobs as a result would receive protection at railroad expense.

Wolfe commented "very generous employee protection is recommended."

"The brotherhoods are not against technological change," a union spokesman asserts. "We just want protection for our men."

4. Road service workers should do limited switching and terminal chores for their trains. Road crews should do switching and station work where yard crews are not on duty. Yard crews should be abolished in places where work volume is low.

Management claims "flagrant featherbedding" has persisted in these areas.

The unions point out road service workers get the mileage basis, which they say is incentive pay, while yard service workers are paid on an hourly basis.

5. Lengths of runs should be adjusted to modern operating capabilities. Such a change would knock out certain requirements for crew changes. New rules would provide for binding settlement of disputes over interdivisional service and would allow moving expenses and compensation for relocated workers.

The railroads offered as an example of current practices: a 7-hour run from Minneapolis to Chicago—400 miles—requires three engine crews.

"To submit to binding arbitration the basic agreement controlling a worker's seniority, job assignment, and working conditions subverts the mission of the labor movement, as we know it," says Gilbert. Seniority would be wiped out on divisions, unions claim, and workers and their families would be uprooted.

6. Changes in sizes of train crews should be arbitrated after surveys and negotiations. Employees let out in such cases would receive unemployment compensation financed by the train lines.

"In many cases," a management spokesman says, "we have too many trainmen and yard brakemen."

"The railroad industry is still one of the most hazardous to life and limb in our nation," says Gilbert. In 1960, he said, 190 employees were killed and 13,245 injured.

"It is not a good record, but it could be worse, a lot worse," Gilbert submits, "if the employees are denied their present contractual voice in the determination of crew size and work assignments."

To the binding arbitration proposals—a sore point to the unions—a spokesman says: "You can submit working conditions to binding arbitration sometimes. But you don't submit the life and death of jobs."

The bird showed up on the proper day, Jan. 27, for bread under Kraemer's porch. It was the third consecutive year this had happened.

Kraemer admits it could be a different robin but the bird always appears at the same time, 9:30 a. m.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the time—with the presidential race still in the future—when the political woods are full of violets, the shrinking kind. The supply looks inexhaustible.

The two best-known reluctant presidential candidates in recent years—judged on what they said before being nominated in 1952—were Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Now three well-known Republicans, all mentioned as prospects in 1964, have just denied any interest in the White House. This is in the Eisenhower tradition. His reluctance is a kind of American classic.

Two of these Republicans are governors, George Romney of Michigan and William Scranton of Pennsylvania. The third is Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

As of now their lack of presidential ambition can be taken as a very firm attitude which would probably become even firmer if someone else, like New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, had the nomination sewed up.

Nothing dissolves reluctance so fast as some evidence of a real chance for the nomination. Right now Rockefeller, his track suit emblazoned with attacks on the Kennedy administration, is almost breathless from running.

At this time he seems to have the inside lane but even Rockefeller hasn't said he's after the nomination. But he hasn't denied it. He's just running and not a week passes without a new attack on the Democrats.

In 1960 he acted like a man who pulled out of the race too soon. By Christmas 1959, Vice President Richard M. Nixon had so many Republican big-wigs on his side that Rockefeller withdrew from the contest.

Then late in May 1960, just a couple of months before the nominating convention, Rockefeller had second thoughts and said he'd accept a draft even though he conceded his chances looked slim. They were.

Featherbedding Is Defined by Unions, Rails

"The name firemen is outmoded because he doesn't shovel coal," a union spokesman says. "But his presence is needed as supervisor of power; he supervises the diesel equipment and does engineroom work while the train is en route."

2. An overhaul of the wage structure, with pay geared to a combination of time and mileage. This is calculated to result in pay raises for 75 per cent of the workers while others could make up for pay cuts, in part, by putting in more hours and riding more miles.

Management holds the present pay structure to be a relic of a slow-moving era when a 100-mile trip was regarded as the equivalent of a full day's work.

The unions challenge the commission finding and contend wages actually would be cut and hours would be lengthened by the proposed changes. "It's hardly a pay increase," a union official said. "It would amount to a cut in pay as much as 80 per cent for locomotive engineers."

3. Railroads should have unlimited right to introduce new equipment and modernize operations. Workers who lost jobs as a result would receive protection at railroad expense.

Wolfe commented "very generous employee protection is recommended."

"The brotherhoods are not against technological change," a union spokesman asserts. "We just want protection for our men."

4. Road service workers should do limited switching and terminal chores for their trains. Road crews should do switching and station work where yard crews are not on duty. Yard crews should be abolished in places where work volume is low.

Management claims "flagrant featherbedding" has persisted in these areas.

The unions point out road service workers get the mileage basis, which they say is incentive pay, while yard service workers are paid on an hourly basis.

5. Lengths of runs should be adjusted to modern operating capabilities. Such a change would knock out certain requirements for crew changes. New rules would provide for binding settlement of disputes over interdivisional service and would allow moving expenses and compensation for relocated workers.

The railroads offered as an example of current practices: a 7-hour run from Minneapolis to Chicago—400 miles — requires three engine crews.

"To submit to binding arbitration the basic agreement controlling a worker's seniority, job assignment, and working conditions subverts the mission of the labor mover," as we know it," says Gilbert. Seniority would be wiped out on divisions, unions claim, and workers and their families would be uprooted.

6. Changes in sizes of train crews should be arbitrated after surveys and negotiations. Employees let out in such cases would receive unemployment compensation financed by the train lines.

"In many cases," a management spokesman says, "we have too many trainmen and yard brakemen."

"The railroad industry is still one of the most hazardous to life and limb in our nation," says Gilbert. In 1960, he said, 190 employees were killed and 13,245 injured.

"It is not a good record, but it could be worse, a lot worse," Gilbert submits. "If the employees are denied their present contractual voice in the determination of crew size and work assignments."

To the binding arbitration proposals—a sore point to the unions—a spokesman says: "You can submit working conditions to binding arbitration sometimes. But you don't submit the life and death of jobs."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the time—with the presidential race still in the future—when the political woods are full of violets, the shrinking kind. The supply looks inexhaustible.

The two best-known reluctant presidential candidates in recent years—judged on what they said before being nominated in 1952—were Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Now three well-known Republicans, all mentioned as prospects in 1964, have just denied any interest in the White House. This is in the Eisenhower tradition. His reluctance is a kind of American classic.

Two of these Republicans are governors, George Romney of Michigan and William Scranton of Pennsylvania. The third is Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

As of now their lack of presidential ambition can be taken as a very firm attitude which would probably become even firmer if someone else, like New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, had the nomination sewed up.

Nothing dissolves reluctance so fast as some evidence of a real chance for the nomination. Right now Rockefeller, his track suit emblazoned with attacks on the Kennedy administration, is almost breathless from running.

NORWALK, Calif. (AP) — Numerically controlled machine tools operated by punched tapes are among the radical changes in the machine tool industry which has caused a "second industrial revolution," according to Paul Henry, chairman of the metals division at Cerritos College.

"Now many machine operations are programmed on a punched tape somewhat similar to a piano player roll," Henry explained.

"A tape recorder supplies commands to the machine."

The college is offering an evening course in "Fundamentals of Numerical Control."

Eisenhower demonstrated how reluctance can thaw under warm and sunny prospects.

In 1946 he said there was "no possibility of my ever being connected with any political office." He said he had no party affiliations.

In 1947 he was saying: "It is my conviction that no man who has spent his life as a professional soldier should enter partisan politics or seek elective office."

In 1948 he said: "My decision to remove myself from the political scene is definite and positive." That was the year when he also said he had never voted.

In 1948, while he was president of Columbia University and insisted he had no political angle he attacked what he called too much centralization in government. That's what the Republicans were saying, too.

By 1950 he was making slambang attacks on the way the government was being run. The Democrats were running it then. In 1951 one friend identified him as a Republican, another said the general had told him he'd "accept the presidential nomination if tendered," and huge support was building up.

On Jan. 7, 1952—the year he was nominated and elected — he was saying he was a Republican and if the Republicans nominated him he would consider it his duty to accept.

Wilt The Peacemaker Hailed For Breaking Up NBA Brawl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt the Stilt is Wilt the Peacemaker today and if that's peace, a couple of bruised fellows named Bailey Howell and Walter Dukes want no part of it.

Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1, 250-pound scoring machine of the San Francisco Warriors, turned peacemaker according to all on-the-spot battleground testimony during a brawling National Basketball Association game between San Francisco and the Detroit Pistons at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

He played it like a barroom bouncer, tossing 6-foot-7 Howell halfway across the court and throwing Dukes, a 7-footer, into a group of fans at the sidelines.

"I thought he was fighting," said Dave DeBusschere of the Pistons. "But then I realized he broke it up." He added, referring to the fight, not to the section of the Garden floor where Howell and Dukes landed.

"He was a real peacemaker out there," said Detroit's Ray Scott in admiration.

The fight began in the closing seconds of the third quarter of the game between two teams battling for the third and last playoff berth in the league's Western Division. Although the Warriors and Wilt might have won the fight, the Pistons won the game 111-102 and took a one-length lead over San Francisco. Detroit has five games left; San Francisco, seven.

The trouble was triggered by Al Attles of San Francisco, a close buddy of Chamberlain's, and Bob Ferry of Detroit, who lost a mid-court points decision to Chamberlain in a fight in San Francisco.

'Big Mistake' New Chance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Art Ditmar, Casey Stengel's "big mistake" of the 1960 World Series, may be back with the world champion New York Yankees when the major league baseball season opens this year.

The big right-hander was Stengel's choice to pitch the first game of the '60 World Series against Pittsburgh. He lasted just one-third inning, yielding three hits and three runs. Stengel started Ditmar again in the fifth game. This time he was knocked out in the second inning.

A year later Stengel admitted he had made a mistake in not starting southpaw Whitey Ford in the first game. Ford pitched two shutouts against the Pirates, but was not available for the deciding seventh game won by Pittsburgh 10-9.

Ditmar was traded to Kansas City and later released by the A's because of arm trouble. Now he is in the Yankee camp on a trial basis.

Ralph Houk, who succeeded Stengel as Yankee manager, said he was impressed by Ditmar's first camp performance. He retired 12 of the 13 batters he faced.

earlier this season. Ferry grabbed Attles or Attles tackled Ferry, depending on which one you talked to. Both agreed that Attles flipped Ferry over his shoulder, and jumped on him.

Enter the hero, the same Chamberlain who usually gets tabbed as the villain whether he's scoring 60 points or barking at the referees.

In the other NBA fights,—Er, games, Syracuse clinched second place in the Eastern Division, whipping the New York Knicks 131-121 in the second game of the Garden doubleheader behind 31 points from Hal Greer and 26 from John Kerr, and Chicago whipped St. Louis at Chicago 116-93 as Walt Bellamy scored 27 points and Terry Dischinger 24. The Hawks played without Bob Pettit, who had influenza.

TV Merchants, Stoutsville Set For Playoff Tilt

The Teays Valley Independent Basketball League finished Sunday with Stoutsville and the TV Merchants deadlocked for the second round title.

A playoff has been scheduled tomorrow in the Ashville-Harrison gymnasium. Both teams have impressive records this season.

Stoutsville has an overall slate of 26-6 while the TV Merchants are 22-4. In the second round of loop play they have records of seven wins and one loss.

In two previous meetings the clubs have split, with Stoutsville taking the first meeting by a four-point decision and the TV squad winning the second by eight points.

The game is scheduled at 8:30 p. m. and will be preceded by a preliminary game between the Teays Valley Faculty and the Teays Valley All-Stars, slated to start at 7:30 p. m.

6 Pieces Left in Collegiate Post-Season Basketball Pie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are six pieces left in college basketball's post-season pie—with 12 teams still looking for a cut.

Six conference berths remain open in the NCAA tournament with two clubs in each league in the running for the coast-to-coast extravaganza. Already set for the national tourney are nine conference entries and the 10 at-large selections.

In Tuesday night's developments Yale grabbed a share of the Ivy League lead with an 80-76 overtime victory at Harvard. Santa Clara went ahead in the West Coast Athletic Conference by winning at home against University of Pacific 79-62, and East Tennessee was knocked out of the Ohio Valley scramble, losing at Middle Tennessee 59-57.

Here is the picture of the six races:

IVY LEAGUE—Yale finished at 11-3, matching Princeton, and the two teams will play off at Fordham's gym in New York Friday night for the NCAA spot.

WCAC—Santa Clara now is 9-2 and San Francisco 8-2, with these two having a showdown Saturday night at San Francisco. Prior to taking on Santa Clara, the Dons have a home game tonight with San Jose State.

OHIO VALLEY—With East Tennessee Tech are left alone at the top with 8-4 records. The co-champions will have a playoff, the conference's fourth in the past eight years.

BIG TEN—Ohio State in the lead at 11-2 with Illinois next at 10-3. The Buckeyes finish at Indiana and the Illini entertain Iowa, both games Saturday afternoon.

BIG EIGHT—Kansas State and Colorado will settle this one Saturday night on K-State's floor. The Wildcats now are 11-2 and the Buffaloes are 10-3, but if Colorado wins the showdown it will get the NCAA trip since it beat K-State in their other regular season game.

BIG SIX—Stanford has clinched a tie at 7-3 but UCLA, 5-5, has a mathematical chance. They'll meet Friday night at UCLA, then the UCLANS are at home against California Saturday while Stanford closes at Southern California.

Providence, 10th ranked nationally and headed for the National Invitation Tournament, romped to its 11th straight victory, winning at Fairfield 85-65.

Baylor snapped Texas' winning string at 14 games and ruined the Longhorns' drive for a perfect Southwest Conference record in a 55-48 upset at Waco. Texas finished with a 13-1 conference mark.

In other Tuesday night games—Rice 73, Texas A&M 70; Arkansas 104, Texas Christian 94; Southern Methodist 88, Texas Tech 87; Oklahoma 70, Oklahoma State 65; Syracuse 100, Colgate 78; Pepperdine 73, Loyola of Los Angeles 55.

The New York Mets were out of the running for the National league pennant almost from the start—but they won the walking title. Met batters drew 616 bases on balls, more than any other club in the league.

Don Perkins of the Dallas Cowboys has gained exactly one mile (1,760 yards) in his two seasons of pro football.

LET DOCTOR DIAGNOSE AND TREAT

Q. Is it possible for a doctor to determine whether the thyroid gland is functioning below normal without using the P.B.I. test? Would lack of energy indicate thyroid trouble? Would taking thyroid tablets be injurious to a teenager?

A. Let's start with your last question. Thyroid tablets should not be taken without medical supervision. Lack of energy could be due to many conditions and not necessarily to thyroid deficiency. The thing to do is consult a physician, but don't go in with a preconceived diagnosis or notion of what tests should or should not be performed. After all, it's up to the physician to decide what is called for in the way of laboratory tests and treatment.

VINEGAR AND HONEY

Q. A medical book I have recommends one tablespoonful of apple cider vinegar and one tablespoonful of honey in a glass of water three times a day as a health drink. What is this good for?

A. We haven't the slightest idea! Not many doctors would object to a salad dressing prepared with apple cider vinegar or to honey on toast, but few indeed would attribute any special health properties to either vinegar or honey.

Our label is a hallmark of quality — like "Sterling" on silver... "Tiffany" on jewelry. It is your guarantee that the prescribed medicine packaged under it meets fully the highest standards of professional practice.

Drysdale May Win 25 Games For Bums Again This Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Drysdale doesn't figure to improve his pitching performance of last season in 1963, but no one will be surprised if the 26-year-old Los Angeles Dodgers' right-hander does as well.

The big fast-baller with the blistering crossfire delivery just about carried the Dodgers' hurling slack last year after left-hander Sandy Koufax was sidelined with a finger ailment in mid-July. It was no fault of his that Los Angeles lost the National League pennant in a playoff with San Francisco.

The 6-foot-6, 205-pound Californian won 25 games, most in the majors, and led both leagues in strikeouts with 232.

He made his first spring training appearance in an intrasquad game at Vero Beach, Fla., Tuesday and looked to be in mid-season form.

Pitching for the Leo Durocher against the Charlie Dressens, Drysdale worked the first three innings and allowed no runs and two hits.

Elsewhere around the spring training camps: Ernie Broglio will be the St. Louis Cardinals' starting pitcher in their first exhibition game against the New York Mets Saturday. Veteran relief pitcher

Ray Moore of the Minnesota Twins was struck in the back by a line drive during batting practice but was not seriously hurt. Reliever ElRoy Face of the Pittsburgh Pirates worked 15 minutes of batting practice and appeared fully recovered from the ankle injury that sidelined him Monday.

Pitcher Bob Bolin reported to the San Francisco Giants' camp after six months in the Army but first baseman Orlando Cepeda and pitcher Juan Marichal remained holdouts. Rookie Jesse Gonder hit a grand-slam homer in the Cincinnati Reds' first intra-squad game.

Hank Aaron checked in at the Milwaukee Braves' camp and hit two of the first five serves to him over the left field wall. Infielder Elio Chacon informed the New York Mets he would report to camp Wednesday but outfielder Frank Thomas remained a hold-out at his home.

Outfielder Manny Jimenez reported to the Kansas City A's camp just in time to avoid a $50-a-day fine for any further tardiness. Pitcher Earl Wilson of the Boston Red Sox was hit on the right shoulder with a line drive, and although the injury appeared not to be serious, he was taken to a hospital for x-rays.

Waterfowl Count Up By 15 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Observers spotted 15 per cent more waterfowl during the 1963 mid-winter survey in the Central Flyway than were counted a year earlier, the Interior Department announced today.

The department interpreted the increase as being an encouraging sign that the curtailed 1962 hunting season served its purpose of preserving waterfowl breeding stock.

Ducks observed in the U.S. portion of the flyway were 23 per cent more numerous than in 1962, but still fell almost 18 per cent below the long-term average.

The number of mallards, the duck preferred by most Central Flyway hunters, was 14 per cent higher than in 1962, but 26 per cent below the average for the past eight years.

More geese were observed. The snow and blue geese counts were up 72 per cent over 1962 and 23 per cent over the long-term average. Increased numbers of white-fronted geese also were seen.

Wittenberg Tops List In Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Wittenberg, No. 1 team in The Associated Press small college poll, heads the NCAA college division basketball tournament 32-team field, which has a combined winning percentage of .760.
Seventeen conference champions are in the tournament, starting at eight regional sites Friday and Saturday. The finals will be at Evansville, Ind., March 13-15.
Wittenberg, the 1961 champ, is among three former champions in the field. Evansville, a perennial power, won the title in 1959-60 and is the only two-time winner. The third is Mt. St. Mary's, Md., the defending champion.
Seven teams will be competing for the first time. They are Belarmine, Ky., Bloomsburg State, Pa., Fairleigh-Dickinson, N.J., Michigan Tech, Oglethorpe, Ga., Tennessee State and Washington University of St. Louis.
Six entrants have won 20 or more games, with Wittenberg's 22-1 heading the list. The others are Hofstra, 22-6; Belarmine, 20-5; Tennessee State, 24-5; Southeast Missouri, 21-2, and Lamar Tech, 21-4.

Proper Introductory Procedure Leaves Council Pondering

Proper parliamentary procedure became an issue in City Council last night. The result was no action taken on an ordinance that would provide funds for erection of a traffic light at Ohio and Washington Sts.

The controversy opened when Solicitor Kenneth Robbins informed Council that no second was made to Councilman Boyd Horn's motion to introduce the ordinance. The motion was read, but failed to gain a motion for suspension of rules.

The solicitor hinted that the measure could not be held to first reading because it was not properly introduced. The result was a hasty discussion on parliamentary procedure and a proper format to follow in the future.

Several Councilmen argued that ordinances and resolutions should be read and understood before a motion is made to introduce. Robbins replied that, according to proper procedure, this should be done in committee sessions or prior to regular meeting time.

THE SOLONS referred to past legislation which has been handled under the old technique. Robbins, however, stood firm on his comments pertaining to proper introduction.

The likely outcome is that Council will take a closer look at parliamentary procedure in hopes of finding the best possible introductory approach to use in future legislation.

Meanwhile, Horn's ordinance requesting funds for the traffic light received no action. Indications are the same measure, or in a diversified form, will come up at the next meeting.

Council was petitioned last month to replace a light at the intersection by 36 residents of the area. The original signal, reportedly hanging four inches too low, was demolished several weeks ago by a passing truck.

Residents of the area petitioned for a replacement on the grounds of heavy traffic in the area and the allied need for safety.

Safety Director Miller Fissell informed the last Council meeting that no funds were available to purchase a new light and controlling device. The insurance company covering the truck that struck the signal to date has refused to pay the damages, although negotiations are still being conducted.

A POSSIBLE solution, voiced by

Councilmen at the last session, was to pull one of the two lights at Northridge Road along Pickaway St. and Atwater Ave. and install it at Washington and Ohio. Fissell hinted that both lights are still needed along Northridge.

Discussion last night failed to produce a decision whether or not the Northridge light would be pulled and substituted or whether a new signal would be purchased. The answer may be forthcoming at the next session.

In other business the city fathers approved an ordinance authorizing the appropriation of $4,055.90 for the purchase of sewer cleaning bucket machines for the Service Department. The equipment will be purchased after competitive bidding has been submitted according to law.

A second ordinance authorized the service director to advertise for bids for furnishing certain materials to the city for street maintenance. The revised measure repealed a previous ordinance that was considered improperly worded.

Life Term Eligible for Parole Hearing

Clifford E. Stewart, now confined in the Lebanon Correctional Institution and serving a life sentence. The revised measure reformed the Ohio Pardon and Parole Commission in April.

Stewart was convicted for breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season and assault with attempt to rape. He was apprehended Jan. 11, 1956, by Circleville Police following an extensive investigation that was conducted for more than two months.

Stewart, 18 at the time and a student at Circleville High School, was indicted by the Pickaway County Grand Jury on Feb. 1, 1956. The life-term sentence followed.

Rotary Program Set

Wallace Barr, Ohio State University Department of Economics Extension, will be guest speaker when the Rotary Club meets Thursday for a weekly session at the BPO Elks Home.

Barrs subject will be "Trip to India."

Delinquents Appear in County Court

Four juveniles appeared in Pickaway County Juvenile Court on miscellaneous delinquency charges.

A local 16-year-old boy was sentenced to six months detention in the county jail for theft of keys from a custodian's desk at Memorial Hall. He was arrested by Circleville Police.

A 15-year-old Orient area girl was handed a suspended sentence to the Girls' Industrial School and placed on probation for three years. A complaint was filed against her by James Pierce, county attendance officer, for school truancy.

Another Orient area youth, a 16-year-old boy, was given a suspended sentence to Boys' Industrial School on charges of truancy filed by Pierce. His auto operator's license was also suspended for six months. He was allegedly driving without his parents' consent.

A 15-YEAR-OLD boy was turned over to Franklin County by the court after striking an Ashville elementary teacher. The youth was living with relatives in the Ashville area. The complaint was filed by George McDowell, county superintendent of schools.

Gregory Trecker, 16, Route 4, appeared before Judge Cline on charges of operating a motor vehicle without a license on charges filed by Deputy Sheriff William Pontious. He was ordered not to apply for a license within a three-month period of the trial.

Charles Levan, 17, of 476 Dearborn Ave., had his temporary driver's permit suspended for six months for reckless operation. Charges were filed by the State Highway Patrol.

Clifford G. Campbell, 17, Route 2, Grove City, appeared on charges of speeding at 77 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone. The case was transferred to Franklin County.

Lausche Seeks To Help Strip Mine Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D - Ohio, proposed today a study to determine whether wasteland left by strip and surface mining can be restored.

Lausche said in a statement that the cheaper strip mining process has been beneficial to the economy as a whole but that in many places throughout the nation it has left grotesque scars and destroyed all other use of the land.

"There are large areas in Ohio and other states where, as a result of stripping operations, public highways have suffered severe damage by reason of slippage; streams, lakes and wells have been polluted; wildlife cover has been destroyed, and, finally, the entire areas themselves have been abandoned as unproductive and virtual wasteland," Lausche said.

Lausche said Ohio and other states have passed laws requiring strip mine operators to restore the land to usefulness by leveling "spoil banks" and planting grass and trees but that "there remain throughout the country thousands upon thousands of acres of pre-law spoil banks."

His bill would provide for a study by the Interior Department to determine what Congress should do to help the states restore such land.

Proper Introductory Procedure Leaves Council Pondering

Proper parliamentary procedure became an issue in City Council last night. The result was no action taken on an ordinance that would provide funds for erection of a traffic light at Ohio and Washington Sts.

The controversy opened when Solicitor Kenneth Robbins informed Council that no second was made to Councilman Boyd Horn's motion to introduce the ordinance. The motion was read, but failed to gain a motion for suspension of rules.

The solicitor hinted that the measure could not be held to first reading because it was not properly introduced. The result was a hasty discussion on parliamentary procedure and a proper format to follow in the future.

Several Councilmen argued that ordinances and resolutions should be read and understood before a motion is made to introduce. Robbins replied that, according to proper procedure, this should be done in committee sessions or prior to regular meeting time.

THE SOLONS referred to past legislation which has been handled under the old technique. Robbins, however, stood firm on his comments pertaining to proper introduction.

The likely outcome is that Council will take a closer look at parliamentary procedure in hopes of finding the best possible introductory approach to use in future legislation.

Meanwhile, Horn's ordinance requesting funds for the traffic light received no action. Indications are the same measure, or in a diversified form, will come up at the next meeting.

Council was petitioned last month to replace a light at the intersection by 35 residents of the area. The original signal, reportedly hanging four inches too low, was demolished several weeks ago by a passing truck.

Residents of the area petitioned for a replacement on the grounds of heavy traffic in the area and the allied need for safety.

Safety Director Miller Fissell informed the last Council meeting that no funds were available to purchase a new light and controlling device. The insurance company covering the truck that struck the signal to date has refused to pay the damages, although negotiations are still being conducted.

A POSSIBLE solution, voiced by

Councilmen at the last session, was to pull one of the two lights at Northridge Road along Pickaway St. and Atwater Ave. and install it at Washington and Ohio. Fissell hinted that both lights are still needed along Northridge.

Discussion last night failed to produce a decision whether or not the Northridge light would be pulled and substituted or whether a new signal would be purchased. The answer may be forthcoming at the next session.

In other business the city fathers approved an ordinance authorizing the appropriation of $4,055.90 for the purchase of sewer cleaning bucket machines for the Service Department. The equipment will be purchased after competitive bidding has been submitted according to law.

A second ordinance authorized the service director to advertise for bids for furnishing certain materials to the city for street maintenance. The revised measure repealed a previous ordinance that was considered improperly worded.

Life Term Eligible for Parole Hearing

Clifford E. Stewart, now confined in the Lebanon Correctional Institution and serving a life sentence. The revised measure before the Ohio Pardon and Parole Commission in April.

Stewart was convicted for breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season and assault with attempt to rape. He was apprehended Jan. 11, 1956, by Circleville Police following an extensive investigation that was conducted for more than two months. Stewart, 18 at the time and a student at Circleville High School, was indicted by the Pickaway County Grand Jury on Feb. 1, 1956. The life-term sentence followed.

Another Orient area youth, a 16-year-old boy, was given a suspended sentence to Boys' Industrial School on charges of truancy filed by Pierce. His auto operator's license was also suspended for six months. He was allegedly driving without his parents' consent.

A 15-YEAR-OLD boy was turned over to Franklin County by the court after striking an Ashville elementary teacher. The youth was living with relatives in the Ashville area. The complaint was filed by George McDowell, county superintendent of schools.

Gregory Trecker, 16, Route 4, appeared before Judge Cline on charges of operating a motor vehicle without a license on charges filed by Deputy Sheriff William Pontious. He was ordered not to apply for a license within a three-month period of the trial.

Charles Levan, 17, of 476 Dearborn Ave., had his temporary driver's permit suspended for six months for reckless operation. Charges were filed by the State Highway Patrol.
